

NIXON DEFENDS DOMESTIC CUTBACKS

Pledges To Work With Congress

...Olive Branch Extended

Washington (AP) — President Nixon pledged Friday to work constructively with Congress and defended his domestic cutbacks as representing "a pragmatic rededication to social compassion and national excellence."

Breaking with the tradition of a single State of the Union message spelling out proposals, Nixon sent Congress a generalized combination of philosophy and goals, promising specific programs would be contained in a series of messages to follow.

He held out an olive branch to his critics in the Democratic-controlled Congress, pledging "to do my part to achieve a constructive working relationship." He expressed hope the executive and legislative branches "can work together in this great undertaking in a positive spirit of mutual respect and cooperation."

Offer Welcomed

Democratic congressional leaders welcomed the President's offer but made clear they would continue their drive to reassert congressional authority.

House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., said:

"Congress will consider each of the President's recommendations in light of our own constitutional responsibilities as a co-equal branch of government and our responsibilities to the American public."

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said that Congress will do its part to work constructively, emphasizing "it's a two-way street."

Restating his philosophy, Nixon called for strength to maintain peace abroad and a rejection of the notion "that ever bigger government is the answer to every problem" at home.

Credibility Strengthened

The Vietnam settlement, he said, has strengthened what he termed "basic American credibility," adding "we must act in such a way in coming years that this credibility will remain intact, and with it, the world stability of which it is so indispensable a part."

He called for leaders of both parties "to take a stand against overgrown government and for the American taxpayer" by holding down federal spending.

At the same moment that one of his top aides, Caspar Weinberger, was defending domestic budget cuts before the Senate Labor Committee, Nixon declared his policies "represent a reaffirmation, not an abdication, of federal responsibility."

'Rededication'

"They represent a pragmatic rededication to social compassion and national excellence, in place of the combination of good intentions and fuzzy follow-through which too often in the past was thought sufficient," the President added.

Asked whether he thought Nixon's $268.7 billion budget, with its sharp domestic cutbacks, represented those goals, Mansfield said "that will be our interpretation of the budget—after we work on it."

Nixon painted a bright picture today of the nation's outlook in the months and years following agreement to end the Vietnam war.

"The basic state of our union today is sound and full of promise," he declared. "We enter 1973 economically strong, militarily secure and, most important of all, at peace after a long and trying war."

In spelling out his goals, Nixon listed a series of messages in areas that follow the division of governmental functions that Congress refused to approve but his recent reorganization sought to bring about.

He listed these objectives:

—In economic affairs, "to hold down taxes, to continue controlling inflation, to promote economic growth, to increase productivity, to encourage foreign trade, to keep farm income high, to bolster small business and to promote better labor-management relations."

—In natural resources, "to preserve and enhance the environment, to advance science balanced use of our irreplaceable natural resources."

—In human resources, "to advance the nation's health and education, to improve conditions of people in need, to carry forward our increasingly successful attacks on crime, drug abuse and injustice, and to deal with such important areas of concern as consumer affairs." He mentioned specifically the need to increase job and training opportunities for Vietnam veterans.

—In community development, to create "more livable communities, in which all of our children can grow up with fuller access to opportunity and greater immunity to the social evils and blights which now plague so many of our towns and cities."

The series of messages, Nixon said, "will be a blueprint for modernizing the concept and the functions of American government to meet the needs of our people."

Fire Damages Styling Salon

A blaze caused by an apparatus short in the electrical system caused considerable damage to the Mister Roger Styling Salon & Beauty Shop early Friday morning.

District Fire Chief Marcel H. Hansen said two passersby saw spotted curtains on fire in the shop at 1602 No. 56th, and notified fire officials.

Hansen said the front window was broken by the fire and a couch was considerably damaged. He said the rest of the shop sustained smoke damage.

TRACKS EXPECTED TO BE REOPENED NEXT WEEK

The Burlington Northern Railroad tracks at Humboldt are derailed scene are expected to be reopened by the middle of next week, BN chief clerk C. R. Vergith of Lincoln said Friday. One diesel engine was uprighted

Friday. The derailment was blamed on a dist slide. In the Thursday noon derailment, engineer V. R. Claycomb and conductor J. M. Crockett, both of St. Joseph, Mo., escaped serious injury. The scene at the left shows several cars tumbled down the bank of the north fork of the Nemaha River. In the scene at the right, the second engine is in the water.

Adding 10 More Drug Probers Endorsed

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Legislation to add 10 special drug investigators to the staff of the State Patrol won 6-0 endorsement Friday from the Unicameral's Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee.

The bill, LB13, would also increase the drug control purchasing fund by $50,000 a year. That is the fund used to make undercover purchases of drugs for evidence.

LB13 is one of a series of drug control bills sponsored by Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood.

In other action, the committee rejected a suggestion by Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh that committee members indicate to Sen. Richard Proud their willingness to forward the equal-rights-for-women issue to the floor for debate.

Hearing Feb. 22

The committee has scheduled a hearing Feb. 22 on Proud's resolution seeking repeal of the 1972 Legislature's ratification of the equal rights amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Proud told the Legislature Friday he will ask that the resolution be transferred to another committee for hearing in light of Sen. Ernest Chambers' published views in support of the amendment.

Chambers is chairman of the Government Committee.

Proud wondered whether his resolution could receive "a fair hearing" as a result of Chambers' stated views.

DeCamp told the committee later in the day that Proud would withdraw his request for a transfer of the bill if committee members indicated a willingness to let the issue be resolved on the floor.

DeCamp For Forwarding

Even though he opposes Proud's resolution, DeCamp said, he will vote in committee to send it to the floor for an ultimate decision.

Other committee members declined to offer similar assurance.

"If he feels it won't get a fair hearing here, let him take it from this committee," Chambers said. "Tell him to go ahead and make his efforts to remove it from the committee."

Sens. Wally Barnett of Lincoln and Leslie Stull of Alliance said they will withhold any judgment prior to the hearing. "I'm going to hold loose," Stull said.

"If we are going to guarantee in advance that we will move it to the floor, we might as well let the whole Legislature hold the hearing," Sen. Steve Fowler of Lincoln said.

Politically Explosive

Chambers said Proud is concerned because he has discovered the resolution is politically explosive.

"He thought he had grabbed a mouse when he really had hold of the tip end of the toe of a dragon," Chambers said.

Heard and held for later action was a bill transferring the costs of boarding county jail prisoners from the counties to the state.

Money saved by the counties could be used to improve jail standards, Sen. Blair Richendifer of Walthill said.

Richendifer is sponsor of the bill, LB233.

Iowa Town Rocked By Explosion

Eagle Grove, Iowa (UPI) — Scores of rescue workers labored into the night Friday in an attempt to clear rubble and determine the toll of a dinner hour explosion in downtown Eagle Grove.

The blast leveled two buildings and there was no immediate indication of how many people were killed or injured in the blast or even how many persons were in the buildings when the explosion occurred.

Authorities said the blast was apparently triggered by a massive accumulation of gas in one of the buildings.

The force of the explosion ripped the roof from the Locke Jewelry Store, situated next to the Chatterbox Cafe where most of the persons believed trapped had been gathered for a fish fry. Police said the roof fell directly over the cafe.

The blast occurred around 6:20 p.m., but by 10 p.m. two cranes and a number of special earth movers were still working to lift the roof off the structure.

At 10:30, rescue workers reached the cash registers from the Chatterbox and said they were "getting close now."

Wright County Sheriff Robert Shaw said "your guess is as good as mine" as to how many people were in the building when the explosion occurred. However, one sheriff's deputy said one man who left the building shortly before the explosion said he believed there were nine people inside when he stepped out.

"We have no idea if that figure includes employees," Shaw said.

POOLING TALENTS . . . for booklet are Darrell and Denise.

Youth-in-Action Newcomers To Get Welcome To City

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Capital City newcomers will soon be getting a big "Welcome to Lincoln" in the plumes of eighth-grade social studies at Goodrich Junior High School.

"Welcome to Lincoln" is the title of a public service booklet which, when finished, will be the product of hundreds of hours of work by the youngsters in classes of teacher Jan Rogers.

"It's to help people who are coming to Lincoln, moving or just interested in general facts about the community," said Denise Gates, 13, one of the students who have pooled their talents to produce the book.

"We'll send it to the Welcome Wagon, the Chamber of Commerce and anybody who sends a self-addressed envelope," said Darrell Hischke, 14, another of the social studies students.

The mimeographed booklet, which the two students estimated might total more than 100 pages when finished, studies the city in five areas—northwest, southwest, southeast, northeast and downtown.

It lists such information as services, shopping centers, medical offices, recreation areas and park facilities. Each student picked the area of his interest, and then set about to research a particular aspect of it.

Darrell's job, for example, was to map routes to hospitals with the time it takes to get to them from certain parts of Lincoln.

And Denise said she learned that more shopping centers and doctors' offices existed in northwest Lincoln than she had imagined.

They both said the project was a good way to acquaint themselves with the community, and they said the knowledge that the booklet would be seen by many people provided the incentive to do the job well.

"We knew how it was going to go to so many people," noted Darrell. "We had to do

Basement Bedrooms 'Deathtraps'

Chief Fire Inspector John Gabarron of the Lincoln Fire Department said Friday that basement bedrooms can be "deathtraps."

Keith Carstens, 10, of 4810 So. 47th, died Friday in a fire at his home. The boy, who had a basement bedroom, apparently was not able to escape the blaze.

"If there is a fire, it is impossible for anybody to get out of a basement bedroom with only small windows at the top," Gabarron said.

"We plead with people to provide a second exit," he said.

Gabarron said the cause of the fire was still under investigation, but that it apparently started in the boy's bedroom.

He said natural gas from a pipe to the kitchen stove in the home may have helped fuel the blaze, but was only a side effect of the fire.

Gabarron said fire department officials were "almost positive" that asphyxiation was the cause of the boy's death. The boy was found lying on the basement floor with the side of his face in water accumulated from fire fighting efforts.

The boy's father, George Carstens, and firemen tried to rescue the boy, but were forced back by flames.

JMC Leaders Hold Meeting

Saigon (UPI) — The delegation leaders of the four-party Joint Military Commission (JMC) met for the first time Friday and agreed to discuss details on releasing American prisoners of war at their next meeting on Sunday, government and military sources said.

The JMC, composed of representatives from the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong, is responsible for working out details of release of the 555 American POWs held in North Vietnam and a smaller number held in South Vietnam. Sunday's meeting will be the first time the details will be discussed.

At Friday's tightly guarded four-hour meeting, the American delegate, Maj. Gen. Gilbert Woodward, criticized the JMC for wasting time during the past five days.

Woodward, who presided over Friday's meeting, also told South Vietnamese, Viet Cong and North Vietnamese military officers to renew armistice orders to their troops to stop the fighting that has continued despite cease-fire orders last Sunday, the sources said.

President Nguyen Van Thieu charged Friday that Poland and Hungary, two members of the international cease-fire commission, and the Communist Vietnamese were sabotaging the cease-fire by stalling. Thieu said the Communist delegations "must show more good will toward recognizing the violations of the cease-fire."

Under terms of the Paris peace agreement, the JMC will enforce cease-fire orders, supervise the withdrawal of American troops and arrange details for the POW release over a period of 60 days, as well as supplying transportation and security for teams from the International Commission for Control and Supervision (ICCS) cease-fire monitors.

Friday's session was the first among delegation heads. The Viet Cong's chief delegate, Maj. Gen. Tran Van Tra, arrived in Saigon only Thursday, 72 hours behind the schedule called for in the treaty.

Other issues raised in Friday's session, the sources said, included initial talks on the removal of U.S. mines from North Vietnamese waters, arrangements for sending observer teams to the field and the question of meetings with the ICCS.

Vientiane — A high Laotian government official has said that the United States is strongly urging the government of Premier Souvanna Phouma to reach a speedy cease fire with the Pathet Lao and that the premier has accepted the American view despite misgivings that no accord, including adequate guarantees, can be reached.

Aid Legality Disputed

Washington — Disagreement is reported to have broken out within the administration over whether the United States under the Vietnam peace agreement can continue to provide about $500 million annually in military aid to Laos and Cambodia. Senate Democratic sources reported Friday that they had been informed by the State Department that the Defense Department was being urged by the State Department, and apparently by Henry A. Kissinger's White House office to continue the military aid and not to withdraw any of the military aid personnel assigned to the two countries.

Talks Are Ordered

Saigon — In a radio and television address at the start of what he said was the first peaceful Tet—the lunar new year—in 18 years, President Nguyen Van Thieu announced that he had ordered a senior diplomat to begin talks in Paris with the Viet Cong on South Vietnam's political future.

30 Cardinals Nominated

Rome — Pope Paul VI nominated 30 new cardinals from all continents, including three

Americans. The American cardinals are the Archbishop of Boston, the Most Rev. Humbert S. Medeiros; the Archbishop of Los Angeles, the Most Rev. Timothy Manning; and the Archbishop of San Juan, P.R., the Most Rev. Luis Aponte Martinez, who will become the first Puerto Rican cardinal in the history of the Roman Catholic Church. (More on Page 2.)

Message Is Unyielding

Washington — President Nixon, whose budget cuts and pledges to dismantle social programs have angered many members of Congress, sent Congress a state of the union message that was unyielding in his intention to "draw the line" on spending, Nixon said, "the time has come for the responsible leaders of both political parties to take a stand against overgrown government and for the American taxpayer." The message was the first of several on the state of the union that Nixon plans to send to Congress this month. (More on Page 1.)

Unemployment Rate Down

Washington — The nation's unemployment rate declined a little more in January to 5% of the labor force — the lowest since unemployment headed upward in mid 1970 — the Labor Department reported. The December rate, revised from the earlier estimate, was 5.1%. (More on Page 2.)

Judge Unhappy With Results

Washington — In blunt and explicit language, Chief Judge John J. Sirica, who presided at the Watergate trial in federal district court in Washington, charged that the recently concluded trial had failed to get to the bottom of the case. He expressed his dissatisfaction at a bail hearing for two of the convicted defendants. (More on Page 2.)

Garcia Wins Acquittal

New York — Ralph Garcia, the man who has spent more time in the New York City jail without going to trial than anyone else in recent years—27 months—was acquitted of a double murder charge in Manhattan Supreme Court. His case evoked widespread controversy last fall when William J. Vanden Heuvel, chairman of the city's board of corrections, publicly cited it as a classic example of how "the city's lawyers abandon the impoverished client."

Watergate Trial Judge Unsatisfied With Story

Washington (AP) — The Watergate trial judge said Friday he hopes the Senate gets "to the bottom of this case" because he is not satisfied the story came out in his courtroom.

U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica also expressed "great doubts," that Hugh W. Sloan, treasurer of President Nixon's re-election committee, "told us the entire truth in this case."

Judge Sirica made his statements before he set surety bonds of $100,000 for G. Gordon Liddy and James W. McCord Jr., former Nixon campaign officials who were convicted by the jury of plotting and carrying out the burglary and wiretapping of Democratic Party Headquarters in the Watergate building.

The 69-year-old chief judge also took the occasion to dress down McCord's lawyer, Jerry Alch, for referring in court papers to matters discussed in chambers and sealed, saying:

"I'm strongly considering referring this matter to our grievance committee... your conduct deserves censure." Alch apologized profusely and the judge did not say whether he will carry out his threat.

In his application for a lower bond, Alch also mentioned he planned to appeal McCord's conviction on ground the judge extended "the judicial role of the court into the area of prosecution and investigation."

Behind that motion was the judge's extensive questioning of Sloan, one of the prosecution's key witnesses, who testified he had given Liddy $199,000 but had no idea what the money was to be used for. Some of the money, in $100 bills, was in possession of the five men arrested inside the Democratic headquarters last June 17.

"I had great doubts whether Mr. Sloan has told us the entire truth in this case," Judge Sirica said. "I will say it now and I indicated that during the trial. I felt neither one of you—government or defense—asked Mr. Sloan any questions."

"Now I had a right under my authority as judge... to question him, to see all the facts brought out. I did nothing improper. I'm glad I did it. If I had to do it over again, I'd do it."

Then the judge said: "I have not been satisfied... and this is not a criticism of Mr. Silbert (the prosecutor)... that all of the pertinent facts that might be available" were brought out.

The judge added he was not satisfied others might not have been able to testify about the reasons for turning $199,000 over to Liddy. No such testimony was sought from any other witness by the prosecution and Liddy did not testify.

Sloan, who resigned as treasurer of the finance committee because of the publicity over the case, said he was authorized to give the money to Liddy by Jeb Magruder, deputy director of the reelection committee.

"For what purpose," the judge asked.

"I have no idea," Sloan said. "You didn't question Mr. Magruder about the purpose of the $199,000," the judge asked.

"No sir," said Sloan, "I verified with Mr. Stans and Mr. Mitchell he was authorized to make those."

Maurice Stans, the former secretary of commerce, was the campaign's finance chairman. Former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell was campaign chairman.

Sirica reprimanded Alch for including in his bond motion, a public document, the fact that in chambers the judge had said "it was not too late for the defendants to appear before a grand jury."

The judge mentioned in open court for the first time that in that secret conference "I gave the government names of several persons that should be called by the grand jury," and that he warned against making those names public.

"I offer you my most sincere apology," Alch said. "Try not to judge me on that isolated incident."

Sirica indicated he was displeased that the grand jury that indicted Liddy, McCord and five others who pleaded guilty, was given depositions from key people rather than having the opportunity to question the witnesses.

Stans was one of those who gave a deposition, which is a question and answer session under oath before only prosecution and defense attorneys.

Mitchell testified in person before the grand jury.

Liddy's lawyer, Peter Maroulis, said his client could not post the bond — which requires $100,000 collateral — and accepted Sirica's offer to have Liddy sent to the government's minimum security prison at Danbury, Conn., to await sentencing.

Alch said he would inform the judge Monday on whether the surety bond could be raised and McCord went back to the District of Columbia jail where both men have been since the verdict on Tuesday.

Punxsutawney Phil Sees His Shadow

By The Associated Press

Punxsutawney Phil, known to have broken tradition only once in his many lives, crawled out of his groundhog hole atop Gobbler's Knob after dawn Friday and, according to believers, saw his shadow.

Hence, they say, six more weeks of winter weather. In keeping with the myth, played out in the Pennsylvania community each Feb. 2, a faithful band of Phil's followers trekked to the scrub-covered hilltop outside town, and despite rain made the pronouncement that the groundhog had seen his shadow.

The ritual is carefully scripted weeks in advance, and the decision is almost always the same, to have the furry little oracle see his shadow.

One year members of the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club decided to delete the shadow, leading to a forecast of impending spring weather.

"That night the temperature went to 34 below," said Bill Carlton, editor of the Punxsutawney Spirit, "and later it snowed like crazy. It was without a doubt the worst damned winter we'd ever had."

Despite the tongue-in-cheek tone of the forecast, there was seemingly serious reaction from precincts outside Punxsutawney.

Mona III, the St. Louis Zoo's "official" groundhog, looked sleepily around Friday and didn't see a trace of shadow, prompting a zoo official to remark:

"Pennsylvania is hundreds of miles from here. It may be that both Mona and Phil are correct for their respective areas. Placing the responsibility for a national prediction on poor Phil is unfair."

"It's just plain foolishness to go over this thing every year," Edson Fichter, an Idaho State University zoology professor, said in Pocatello.

"If it is an early spring, the groundhog will come out, but not necessarily on Feb. 2," Fichter said. "The weather determines what the groundhog will do — the groundhog does not decide the weather."

Flu Death Rate Climbs

Atlanta, Ga. (AP) — The number of deaths from English influenza and related respiratory ailments has exceeded the expected level for the fourth consecutive week, the Center for Disease Control said Friday.

The center said the total of 1,027 deaths in 122 cities for the four weeks ending Jan. 27 was above that normally expected, but added the figure was smaller than the 1,105 deaths from Hong Kong flu during the same period last year.

The Pacific coast area continues to be the most heavily affected by the English flu, the report said.

English flu has been confirmed in 30 states by laboratory reports, the CDC said. The states are:

Arizona, Alaska, Alabama, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Michigan, Mississippi, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia and the state of Washington.

Seven states reporting English flu-type symptoms but not yet confirmed by laboratory reports are Arkansas, Kentucky, Missouri, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota and Wyoming.

Unemployment Edges Down

Washington (AP) — Unemployment edged down to 5% of the nation's work force in January, lowest in 2½ years and missing President Nixon's year-end target for reducing inflation by only one month.

Nixon's chief economic adviser, Dr. Herbert Stein, said he expected the jobless rate to fall further to about 4.5% by the end of this year.

Stein said the latest figures announced Friday showed "a picture of a strong labor market."

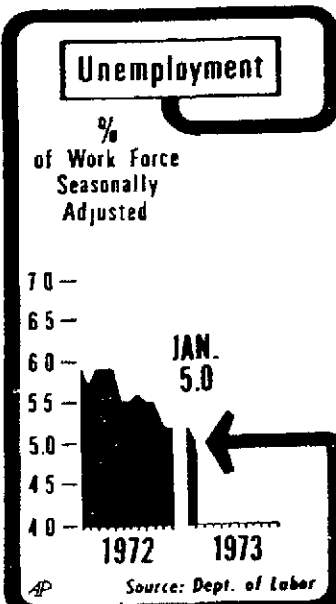

The nation's total work force, total employment and average weekly pay of rank-and-file workers also fell.

The actual number of unemployed Americans rose 560,000 to 4.6 million, but the Bureau of Labor Statistics figured it as a decline of 121,000 on a seasonally adjusted scale because it normally rises more in January.

Total employment dropped 1.8 million to 85.7 million but was figured as only a 225,000 drop because of seasonal factors.

Average hourly pay of some 50 million rank-and-file workers rose four cents last month to $3.78, but weekly pay declined $1.15 to $138.35 because of a decline in the length of the average work week.

The average weekly paycheck was $8.06 higher than a year ago, a 6.2% increase, and purchasing power was $3.35 per week higher after deducting the 3.4% rise in living costs over the year.

The average work week declined 12 minutes to 36.9 hours. In manufacturing, the average work week declined 30 minutes to 40.2 hours, and average overtime work dropped 12 minutes to 3.6 hours per week, the report said.

The drop in total employment was largely due to a decline in agricultural jobs, and despite the drop the total number of Americans at work was still nearly 2 million more than a year ago, it said.

The total of unemployed was nearly 800,000 less than in January 1972.

The report showed little change in the 5.9% jobless rate for Vietnam-era veterans, but during the past year it dropped sharply from 8.5%, a faster decline than for the rest of the labor force.

The Nixon administration has placed special emphasis on efforts to find jobs for returning veterans.

The total of unemployed was made up of 2 million men with a rate of 3.3%, down from 3.4% in December; 1,627,000 women with a rate of 5.3%, up from 4.1 the month before; and 1,050,000 teen-agers with a rate of 14.3%, down substantially from December's 15.7-per-cent rate.

The rate for teen-agers was the lowest in nearly three years, the bureau said.

Over the year, the number of unemployed men has fallen by 485,000, the number of jobless women dropped nearly 70,000, and the total of unemployed teen-agers was down 185,000, the report showed.

The average length of unemployment declined to 10.4 weeks, down a full week from a year ago, which Stein called a sharp drop.

The bureau said the unemployment rate among white workers remained unchanged at 4.8% with a total of 3,835,000 jobless, down from 5.3% and 4,442,000 a year ago.

The jobless rate for nonwhites — mostly Negroes — declined from 9.6 to 8.9% in January with a total of 840,000 out of work, down from 10.9% and 1,025,000 a year ago.

Belfast Violence Heightens

Belfast, Northern Ireland (AP) — Terrorists with submachine guns mowed down five Protestant teen-agers outside a Belfast church youth club late Friday night, killing one boy and wounding four, police reported.

Authorities held three men for questioning.

Rioting broke out elsewhere in Belfast. Youths in a Protestant-dominated eastern section of the capital hijacked buses, set them afire and clashed with police.

A man's body was found, and the hood on his head indicated he was the victim of a guerrilla execution. In an execution earlier Friday, teenage gunmen killed a Protestant before his workmates in a paint store.

With the slayings, the 3½-year death toll of violence in Northern Ireland passed 700.

A rash of killings this week pushed the violence closer to a bloody showdown between the Irish Republican Army on the Roman Catholic side and the Protestant militants of the Ulster Defense Association.

Police said four boys were taken to a hospital with gunshot wounds after the youth club attack in a mixed Catholic and Protestant part of Belfast's Old Park district.

Three bursts of automatic fire raked the youths as they left the club. The bullets apparently came from a passing car, police said.

Almost at the same time as the raid police said they discovered the body of the hooded man sprawled in a car in a mixed-religion precinct of the mainly Catholic Springfield Road. He was not identified.

Twenty-one people have been killed this year. The death list this week alone included five Catholics, two Protestants and a British soldier. The IRA Provisional wing vowed two days ago to take "ruthless retaliatory action" against the Protestant militants after a wave of hit-and-run attacks on Catholics.

Friday's paint-store killing was on Springfield Road, a Belfast dividing line between Protestant and Catholic zones. The young gunmen burst in and lined employees up against a wall.

"We want you," one told their 21-year-old victim. They hauled him forward, then pumped five shots into his head and legs. He died a half hour later.

Police blamed the IRA.

The court ruled that the film in no way offended morals and should be released in movie theaters in Italy.

Prosecutor Gino Paolo Latini appealed the sentence immediately, but the court decided to continue the showings while the verdict is on appeal.

The prosecutor had asked sentences of eight months in jail for each of the defendants and demanded that the film be banned permanently in Italy.

Heroin Conviction Upheld Despite Prosecutor's Remark

By United Press International
The State Supreme Court Friday upheld the heroin possession conviction of Sie Brooks of Omaha. But Judge Hale McCown, in dissenting with the six-judge majority, admonished the court for the lack of importance it attached to one action of the prosecuting attorney which, in part, resulted in the appeal.

At issue on appeal was a charge of error on the part of the Douglas County District Court that a mistrial motion should have been sustained because the prosecuting attorney said he believed the man to be guilty during his closing arguments.

The majority excused the action as an inadvertent slip and said it had no real impact on the outcome of the case anyway.

"Should Not Be Compromised" McCown, however, said the professional prohibition against a prosecuting attorney inserting his personal beliefs should not be compromised, even if it was a mistake.

"There should be no compromise with ethical standards of proper trial conduct, much less the tacit acceptance of even an unintentional violation of the statutory and constitutional rights of a defendant accused of a crime," he said.

By fostering or allowing even an unintentional slip, he said, future intentional ones may be allowed to stand.

In admonishing the court for its possible precedent, McCown reminded the court of its own words on the subject when it was involved in a previous case: "If we treat violation indulgently, we shall soon — in the words of Pope — 'first endure, then pity, then embrace'."

Bank's Right Affirmed

In the only other case decided by the court, the right of the First National Bank of McCook to recover a list of items from debtor R. W. Hull was affirmed.

The court, however, in affirming the bank's authority, did order the Red Willow County District Court to make sure only the items listed in the original security agreement were taken by the bank.

If anything additional was taken, the high court said they should be returned and judgment should be entered in Hull's favor for damages.

Partial Loan Restoration Is Urged

By United Press International

A Nebraska Rural Electric Association spokesman said Friday he doesn't think that a full restoration of the federal two per cent direct loan program can be justified.

"We just don't believe that we could defend total reinstatement," said Dick Wilkerson, the state association's chief executive officer.

As a result, he said, the Nebraska organization has adopted a stand in support of partial reinstatement of the rural electric aid effort.

"We want to push for a restoration of some part of the two per cent direct loan program, or a low interest program, or a similar nature," Wilkerson said. The push for the partial restoration of the loan program, which was among a number of rural program cutbacks accomplished by the administration, would be done in cooperation with the state's congressional delegation.

However, said Wilkerson, while it appears the move would get support from the delegation, Rep. Dave Martin, R-Nebr., won't be included.

The reasoning behind the stand that only a partial restoration of the loan program could be justified lies in the basic philosophy of the loan program itself, the spokesman said.

The rural electric system was designed to provide power at a reasonable rate, to those living in low population density areas — the farmer and rancher.

But through the years, Wilkerson said, more and more of the federal Rural Electrification Administration's efforts have involved systems serving areas other than the rural ones.

Urban Consumers

"We're not kidding anybody," he said. "There are a number of systems serving urban consumers."

In fact, Wilkerson said, of the $438 million loaned recently by the federal administration, only about $75 million went to systems actually serving low density areas.

As to the Nebraska stand, the spokesman also said that it was not in conflict with the national organization stand.

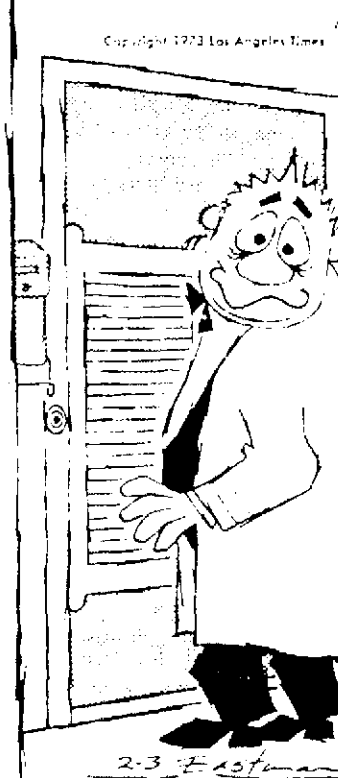

The national unit has called for a full reinstatement of sorts. Wilkerson said the Nebraska stand for partial reinstatement of the loan program represented simply "a further refinement" of the national stand which would meet the state's needs.

Another factor which he said is felt necessary is to make sure the Nixon administration retains the administrator of the REA as the final authority on any kind of proemerge.

Meet Star Carrier Jeffrey Meyer

Jeffrey Meyer of Lincoln has become an efficient businessman, a successful salesman and a thrifty money manager since he took over a paper route four months ago.

A carrier salesman for The Lincoln Star, Jeffrey's salesmanship has already won him an award for the largest increase in customer total in his district. And his increased earnings have enabled him to treat his family to a performance of "Holiday on Ice" while still leaving a comfortable balance in his checking and savings accounts.

As a student at Lutheran Junior High School, Jeffrey carries a healthy two grade average, plays the saxophone in the school band and middle guard on the football team.

His education plans for the future include college and a career in science.

Jeffrey is active in the Boy Scout program and is the holder of a life saving merit badge.

In his spare time, Jeffrey builds model ships and cars.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Looking at the surface of the situation, one might conclude that Lincoln state senators are correct in pushing for legislative approval of district representation for the Lincoln City Council. But it is important that we all look beyond the surface.

It is especially important for state senators from Lincoln since they are the force that has it within its power to give this form of government to Lincoln. Let them not act in haste, frustration or excessive self-righteousness lest they do everyone a great disservice.

True enough, the present City Council is about as bad as one as Lincoln has ever had. But we have elections in May and, hopefully, the caliber of council members will then be improved.

It is also true that some people in Lincoln feel disenfranchised with their local government. Especially in the suburban areas of College View and Havelock does one sense this dissatisfaction.

But is district representation the answer? Would a councilman from College View provide that area of Lincoln with better municipal services than it now receives?

Or, would that councilman simply find himself arrayed against representatives from the other four districts and the two at-large representatives? You can bet your bottom dollar that he would in a great many cases.

The state senators involved and others should give careful thought to what they want. Is it really representation they want or service? It is the latter, of course, and it is through the former that they seek the service but what is there, really, to suggest that this would ever come to pass with district representation?

Will districts really improve the quality of the council members? We fail to see any logic in assuming that you will get more qualified and dedicated people out of districts than you get through at-large elections.

Some senators have spoken of situations in which Lincoln citizens have complained to them of inability to obtain any satisfaction from local government. This, however, is going to exist, whatever form of government you have.

You will always have some disgruntled and unhappy citizens and taxpayers. There are no universal or perfect answers to all the problems of our municipality and you cannot, therefore, come up with even an insignificant decision that completely satisfies everyone.

Again, the form of government makes absolutely no difference — no perfect form has ever been conceived. Senators would hear as much complaint from people under district representation as they do now under the at-large system.

Also, those advocating district representation should give some thought to the thousands of at least relatively satisfied Lincoln people who are saying nothing. They may not collar a state senator and tell him they are content with local government but they are there.

Is it right for a few unhappy citizens to force a new form of government upon everyone? This suggests that at least the matter ought to be submitted to a vote rather than arbitrarily decided by the Legislature.

What Omaha does is its business but Lincoln always has been and remains a very homogeneous community. It is impossible to think that it would now want to turn to a system that is only going to divide it with a kind of political factionalism we have not really had before.

All-Electric World A Changing Scene

NEW YORK — Get ready for a shock, folks. The bookworms are plugging into the world of electronics, and it won't be long before life will be one long extension cord.

(Which, if your house is anything like ours, you won't be able to find when you need it most.)

The idea is still experimental (so was the computer . . . once), but to someone who still doesn't understand how the telephone works (when it does) the new undergraduate seminar at Yale is unsettling.

In case you missed it, that's where they're turning future anthropologists, sociologists, economists, philosophers, writers, lawyers and doctors loose in the world of Big Brother, with a pep talk to get in there and think up ways to wire us up for all our daily chores.

The idea of course is to hook everything into the magical maze of cable TV, computers, videotape cartridges and whatever other mystifying gadgets engineers are even now concocting in their labs.

If all goes well, by 1985 everybody's home will be one giant data retrieval system, programmed to bring the outside world inside at the flick of a switch. (Never mind contemplating the havoc a blown fuse could wreak, they'll work that out, too.)

Our newspapers will be flashed on the wall — we'll get our books out of an "information center" instead of the library — we'll even bank via TV.

No more strolling down the street to window-shop. The computer will flash pictures of the merchandise into the home for our selection. (And there's trouble right there. Many a shopper calls it quits only because her feet are killing her, think what she could do to the budget from an easy chair.)

We won't have to leave the house for a movie, either. That information center will premiere anything we indicate a hankering for. Plus, no doubt, the popcorn to go with it.

Then there's college. The folks behind this experiment hope to perfect two-way instructional television so that one professor can teach thousands of students in their homes simultaneously. "Sunrise Semester" with a new twist. In these courses, the kids can talk back.

This is fine for people who might never get an education any other way. But I know some homes where Mom and Pop are counting the days until their 18-year-old goes off to some faraway campus — and takes his stereo with him. What happens if Sonny decides to plotz at home and go to college in the kitchen?

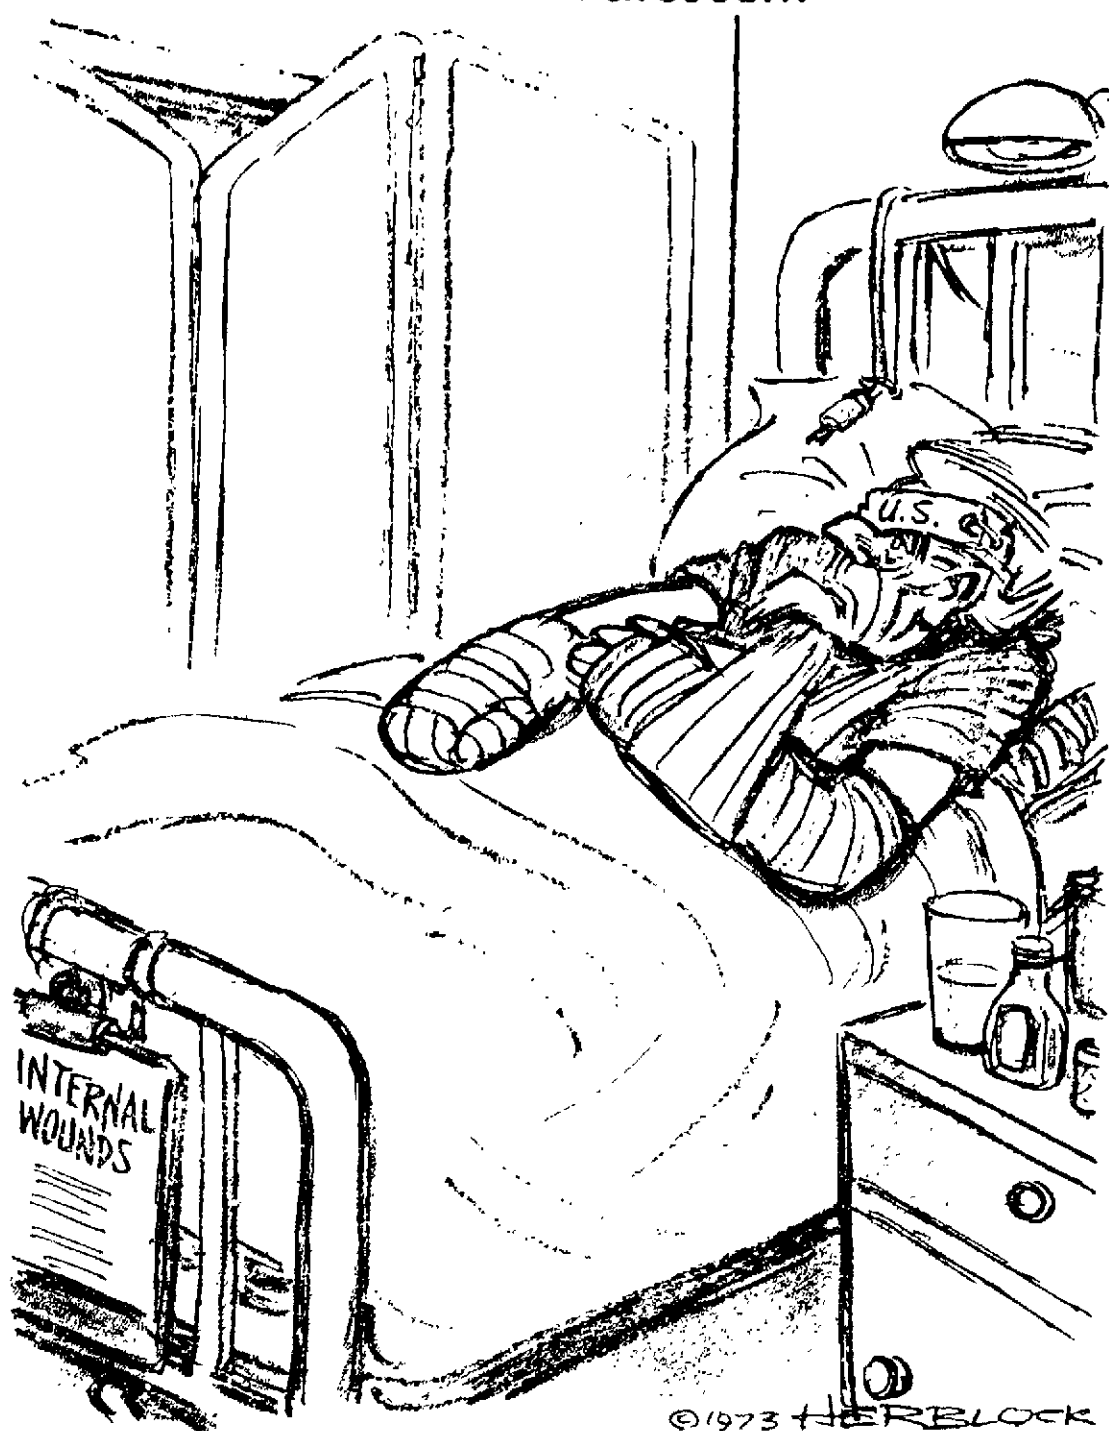

It's all very well to bring electronic know-how into health care. Satellite clinics sound fine for winging case histories back and forth between doctors. (And by then somebody will probably have invented a way to avoid those little computer mix-ups that send our bank statement to our nastiest creditor. With electrocardiograms, that could be embarrassing. And there's bound to be more of them, since we won't get our exercise scrambling in the bushes for the newspaper.)

Those two-way "personal communication systems" sound all right, too. Being wired up like a toaster to the nearest police station might come in handy during muggings.

But please gentlemen go easy on the rest of it. Our electricity bill is frightening enough as it is.

Johnson And Civil Rights

Lyndon Johnson's place as one of the foremost civil rights activists during the decade in which the movement really came of age was met by a peculiar sense of disbelief in many circles, as the late president himself admitted during his last interview, aired by CBS Thursday night.

One believed, truly, when he heard the aspirations of minority people articulated through the throaty voice of a Martin Luther King. And sincerity was pervasive when the call to brotherhood was issued with the broad accents of an eastern liberal. The lofty words, however, uttered by Lyndon Johnson in those cornpone, country-Southern tones of his — well, that was something entirely different to many people.

But Johnson — this nation's first Southern president since Woodrow Wilson and a former leading member of the clubby Senate inner circle which abounded with Dixie giants — had the commitment to seeking equality for all races. He had the position of leadership and used it to manage passage of landmark civil rights bills which insured, so far as the law is concerned, against discrimination in public accommodations, housing and at the polls. His moral leadership in the whole civil rights area, moreover, went beyond the importance of legislation.

There is a tenuous parallel, but a parallel, nevertheless, between Johnson's civil rights record and President Nixon's record in foreign affairs.

Nixon, the die-hard anti-communist of earlier days, who had advised against talking with the agents of international communism, in his presidency brought respectability to a dialogue with the Peoples Republic of China. His predecessors couldn't have gotten away with it, but with Nixon, it time had come. Johnson, the Southern president and Southern senator who sounded like all Southern senators, brought respectability and fruition to the civil rights movement. Its time had come too, and perhaps Johnson was most responsible for it.

The Suffering Russians

A particularly saddening tale about conditions in Soviet prison camps was told to a Senate Internal Security subcommittee this week by a Russian Jew who fled to Israel in 1970.

A veteran of the concentration camps, Avraham Shifrin told of the cruelty suffered to this day by millions of political prisoners in prison camps ringing most Russian cities. Back-breaking labor, rotten food, miserable living conditions and barbaric punishment are all part of the day-to-day routine, Shifrin testified.

If such conditions exist at a time when the communist leadership is supposed to be enlightened and purges are thought not to be a necessity, then the darker days of the Soviet Union's short history must have been unbelievably inhuman, indeed.

Those of a better nature can only hope that world opinion and increased contacts with the west which can lead to a diminishing of fear, will alleviate such suffering.

Americans should not turn away from reading Shifrin's story with an indictment of the Soviet system as their sole thought, however.

All is not right with the American penal system. We don't throw opponents of the ruling administration into prison (or do we?). But there are "political" prisoners placed there nevertheless, because of race or their ignorance or their economic deprivation. And the living conditions in many American prisons are not the best reflections of a supposedly civilized society.

Bitter tears for the suffering Russians are not enough.

JAMES RESTON

On Nursing Old Grievances

WASHINGTON — A lot of people around here have been wondering about President Nixon's mood as he goes into his second term, and now he is not going to be crossed by all those vicious grumblers who abandoned him in the struggle and didn't even have the grace to admit he was right all along.

When he was asked whether he had anything in mind "to help heal the wounds in this country," he took a somewhat different line from Mr. Lincoln, and answered with malice toward some and charity only for his supporters.

"Well," he said, "it takes two to heal wounds, and I must say, when I see that the most vigorous criticism — or shall we say the least pleasure out of the peace agreement comes from those who were the most outspoken advocates of peace at any price — it makes one realize whether some want the wounds healed. We do."

Nixon did recognize that maybe the Congress had a problem getting information from the executive if his officials misused the device of executive privilege and refused to testify on Capitol Hill.

Here he was cautious and agreed to think about the problem and make a considered statement on it later, but he asserted his right to impound funds voted by an irresponsible Congress, and his remarks about granting amnesty to those who had refused to serve in the war left no room for compromise now or later on.

The amnesty question didn't ask him whether he was considering such a policy now but "down the road much farther."

"Amnesty means forgiveness," he said. "We cannot provide forgiveness for them. Those who served paid their price. Those who deserted must pay their price, and the price is not a junket in the Peace Corps or something like that, as some have suggested. The price is a criminal penalty for disobeying the laws of the United States. If they want to return to the United States, they must pay the penalty. If they don't want to return, they are certainly welcome to stay in any country that welcomes them."

Many things might be said about this. First, amnesty is a very hard question that clearly divides the nation, but amnesty does not mean forgiveness. It comes from the same root as amnesia, it is an act of "forgetting" past acts. Second, he left himself no out for the future and even rejected the compromise of non-military service. Third, it dramatized, like the savage bombing of North Vietnam, and some of his stiff budgets on many social programs, an insensitivity to people in trouble, if not an actual strain of cruelty.

ESTEBAN

They Had A Dream

The first Spanish expedition to explore the American Southwest was led by a Negro named Esteban. Esteban discovered Arizona and New Mexico only 45 years after Columbus discovered America.

In an earlier journey, Esteban and three Spaniards were the first explorers to see Texas.

Esteban was a Moorish slave brought to the New World in 1528 on an expedition which was shipwrecked in Tampa Bay. He and three Spanish survivors struggled across the northern part of Mexico to the Texas coast and then across the northern part of Mexico almost to the Pacific Ocean. The journey took them eight years.

A company of Spanish soldiers found the four men naked and half-starved in northwestern Mexico in 1536 and took them to Viceroy Antonio de Mendoza in Mexico City. They told Mendoza they had heard of a wealthy empire to the north which the Indians called the Seven Cities of Cibola. The cities were said to have four- and five-story houses encrusted with jewels.

In 1539, Mendoza organized an expedition to search for the cities, and he placed Francisco Friar Marcos de Niza in charge. Esteban was sent as the friar's guide.

The expedition left Culiacan, near Mazatlan, in northwest Mexico, but Friar Marcos soon split the party and sent Esteban ahead with 300 Indian bearers.

He instructed Esteban to push ahead "50 or 60 leagues" and then to wait for the friar to catch up but to send back runners with news of any discoveries. Esteban was to send a white cross "two palms in length" if he found a city greater than New Spain (Mexico City).

Four days after Esteban left, a runner brought the friar a cross as big as a man and a message that Esteban had found one of the seven cities. A few days later the friar received a second cross and left to join Esteban.

But Esteban had grown impatient. He left without the friar, crossed the southeastern corner of Arizona and drew near to a Zuni Indian pueblo in New Mexico. Taking it for one of the fabled cities, Esteban sent a runner to the chief bearing a gourd rattle as a token of friendship.

The chief threw it to the ground in a rage and sent a warning to Esteban to turn back. Esteban ignored the warning, entered the pueblo and was attacked and killed by the Zunis. Most of his Indians died with him. Those who escaped took back word of the city.

Prompted by Esteban's discovery, Viceroy Mendoza sent a second expedition led by Francisco de Coronado. Coronado discovered no treasure, but his explorations led to the settlement of the Southwest.

On behalf of the Department of Human Development and the Family of the University of Nebraska, I wish to thank The Star for the very excellent coverage given the recent Interim Workshop on Loneliness, Anxiety and Boredom conducted by our department. We have already noted an increased awareness of these related problems by many people within the state as evidenced by significant comments and inquiries to our staff.

We are most grateful to the many individuals and institutions within the community who were most cooperative in providing time and facilities both as resource persons and for practical field experiences for the participants. We are particularly indebted to the Veterans Hospital of Lincoln and St. Monica's Home for Women who were most helpful in the planning, presentation and sponsorship of this workshop.

Abortion

Lincoln, Neb.

This letter is in reply to H.O.W., whose article appeared in the Jan. 27 Star.

Abortion normally takes place in the first three months of pregnancy. During this time the fetus could not live outside the mother's body. So is it really a living, breathing individual? The intention of abortion is to prevent a birth. Is not that the same purpose as using the pill, IUD's, prophylactics, and even the rhythm method?

Abortion for the convenience of the mother is condemned as being wrong. If so, isn't it equally as wrong to abort on the grounds of rape or incest? The fetus conceived under such circumstances is equally innocent. Aren't abortions granted for those reasons also really for the convenience of the woman concerned or her family in order to avoid social humiliation?

Abortion should be a private issue that each woman concerned decides for herself. Society doesn't want a woman in trouble making its decisions, so why does it persist in trying to make hers?

Pot And Kettle

Blair, Neb.

This is to compliment the Nebraska Republican state office for documenting the proof that we have a forthright, safety-conscious governor who isn't cut from the "Don't do as I do but do as I say" cloth. He has obviously become a much safer or luckier driver since becoming our safety leader in the state.

This, while being thankful that I'm not a governor, which might mean someone's revealing my derelictions in driving — this, as I speculate on how many times the rest of us have broken traffic laws and escaped without a citation. The pot calling the kettle black?

DEWEY NEMETZ

An Error

Atchison, Kan.

In the article by The Star's farm editor on Jan. 8, I find only one major error, and that is in the second paragraph. As written, it appears as if we produce 10 million gallons of grain alcohol per day from the amount of milo and corn plus wheat by-products listed. This is our annual production in volume gallons of grain alcohol. The other quantities, such as 100,000 pounds of food-grade starches, etc. were correct.

City Matters

Lincoln, Neb.

I think there should be closer communication between the City Council and the advisory boards and commissions. These boards and commissions should have the responsibility of holding at least a preliminary public hearing on their considerations of recommendations to the City Council. Their meetings should be open to the public, and the executive sessions (closed sessions) should be done away with.

I am sick and tired of slumlords buying property, renting it out, milking it dry, allowing it to run down, then asking for spot zoning to improve the area. There is something sacred about the "home neighborhood" over the apartment or multiple-dwelling neighborhood.

The Goals and Policies Committee (a voluntary cross-section representative of the city) has done a lot of work over the last two years for the purpose of updating the Comprehensive Plan. Their findings and recommendations have been in the hands of the City Council for some six months now, and nothing has been done about it.

In accordance with legislation now being considered in the Unicameral to elect City Council members by districts, northeast Lincoln would not be represented legally. Even though I believe a councilman's responsibility is to the city as a whole, he must also safeguard his district's interests.

The people of northeast Lincoln have been held in limbo about the disposition of the radial long enough. It is time to publish plans and dates, if any are available, and at least let the people know where they stand and why.

And I think we should somehow work in some night council meetings, even if they are special meetings, just to hear the general public.

Wake up, taxpayers! Do you want to pay for regional offices for state senators, with no limit on the amount they can spend on each office? Do you want to support a state network of district attorneys at salaries of $20,000 a year, plus the cost of maintaining each office? Do you want to pay for unlimited welfare payments to families on ADC?

'Unbelievable Heights' Reached

Lincoln Police Lt. B. Dean Leitner has cited drunk driving records he says reach "unbelievable heights" in supporting legislation which would require a driving suspension and assessment of points in all drunk driving cases even if probation is granted by the courts.

Leitner contends in a letter to State Sen. John DeCamp and the Legislature's Judiciary Committee that the records indicate a situation almost as if there were "no law at all."

Leitner's attack centers around the granting of probation in drunk driving cases.

His figures show that in 1969, Lincoln police made 340 arrests for drunk driving, a number which dipped to 332 in 1970.

From 455 Up To 930
However in 1971, the drunk driving arrests increased to 455, and in 1972, the first year the probation system was in full effect, the number more than doubled, to 930.

In his letter to DeCamp and the committee, Leitner says he finds the probation system "disorganized and uncoordinated."

Sen. DeCamp is the author of legislation (LB290) which would require a mandatory drunk driving suspension of at least 30 days even if probation is granted by the courts in the case.

DeCamp says a mandatory assessment of points against the violator's driver's license will also be required.

"Rarely Assessed"

Leitner said the probation system result is that "the penalty for first, second and third drunken driving offenses is rarely being assessed."

And, he adds, "The value of the point system and resulting suspension of the drunk driver is being contained within the individual courts to the extent that it is as if the offense did not occur at all."

Leitner cited one case where an individual, arrested for drunk driving in February 1972, pleaded guilty and was placed on probation. He was again arrested for drunk driving in August and was again placed on probation.

Leitner said a person could be arrested in several cities across Nebraska, charged with first offense drunk driving and be granted probation in each city, since there is no record of the previous convictions.

The present probation system is also being administered unequally in some instances," he said.

Disparity

He told of a case where one youth was arrested after a high-speed chase and was granted probation while another youth, involved in a speed contest but who did not flee to avoid arrest, was denied probation.

The youth who received probation was later stopped by an officer who observed him riding his motorcycle without a license plate.

The youth told the officer his license had been taken away, but neither the Department of Motor Vehicles nor the police had any record of a suspension.

It was finally determined that the probation office had suspended his license.

"Without Merit"

Leitner said the courts boast of the low recidivism of offenders on probation but he contends this argument is without merit.

He said the low recidivism rate offered is based on a very short time span. Records of offenders arrested and suspended prior to the present probation system indicate an equally low recidivism rate over an equal period of time.

The contention that the courts would be in danger of losing federal funding if the probation practices are tampered with is also without merit, Leitner said.

He said that during a meeting with Lincoln Alcohol Safety Project Director Don Nugent, he was told that the assessment of points and the reporting of convictions to the Department of Motor Vehicles would not jeopardize the probation program.

Breakdown

"Compliance with the law can only be assured when the laws are just, when detection and apprehension is likely and when penalties are certain," Leitner said. "If any one element breaks down, then there is no law."

Leitner said one thing which perplexes him is that the legislators, who are duly elected to represent the people, debate and agree on a law which makes certain requirements of citizens for the protection of citizens and provides penalties for offenders can be entirely overruled by one man who "sits on the bench and exercises wisdom which he apparently feels exceeds an entire legislature."

DeCamp told The Star that with his legislation, he is "after the biggest criminals in the state of Nebraska this year, namely, the drunk driver."

"We have been conditioned to accept the drunk driver as simply a fact of life," DeCamp said. "I want him recognized as the most dangerous criminal in the state. One who last year killed hundreds of Nebraskans and one who must be dealt with most harshly."

Law Not Enforced

"Nebraska's drunk driving laws are recognized as the best in the United States," DeCamp said, "but what few people realize is that our law is simply not being enforced."

"It is a law which has the ability to reduce traffic deaths in half if we want to strictly enforce it."

Since the law's passage, several states have copied it in one form or another.

DeCamp said the law was patterned on a drunk driving law in Sweden which was strictly enforced and was responsible for a dramatic decrease in traffic deaths in that country.

Charles Brown

Brown Teacher Of Year

By The Associated Press

Charles Brown of York was named Nebraska Teacher of the Year Friday by the state Department of Education.

Brown was presented with the award by Gerald Whelan of Hastings, president of the state Board of Education, during a luncheon.

Brown, 53, teaches U.S. government and economics at York High School and has been a teacher for 25 years.

He is also Nebraska's nominee for the national Teacher of the Year Award.

Gov. J. James Exon attended the presentation luncheon along with members of the Board of Education and state Education Department.

Brown has 26 years of experience in teaching, 25 of them at York. He is currently a government and economics teacher and was principal from 1956 to 1959 and varsity basketball coach from 1949 to 1952.

His teaching career began in 1940 at Howells, following graduation with honors from Doane College. After serving in the Naval Air Corps during World War II, he joined the faculty at York High School in 1946.

Bill Creating Council Districts Gets Opposition

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha Chamber of Commerce has gone on record against a bill now before the Legislature that provides for the election of 12 Omaha City Councilmen by District.

Dale Te Kolste, chairman of the chamber's executive committee, made the announcement.

The measure is sponsored by Omaha Sen. Ernest Chambers. It received first round approval Wednesday on a 25-11 vote preceded by hot debate.

Te Kolste said the chamber "supports the wishes" of Omaha voters who defeated a "similar measure" by a 2-to-1 margin in last November's election.

County Pay Hike Measure Delayed

A proposal to increase the salaries of county officials ran into floor opposition Friday in the Legislature and will be held until changes can be proposed.

The bill, LB74, would raise the minimum salary of county officials by 25% and is sponsored by Sen. Gary Anderson of Axtell.

Bill To Improve Tax Equalization Is Advanced

A pair of proposals to create the machinery for improved property tax equalization in Nebraska won first-round approval from the Legislature Friday.

One bill, LB19, would create a 14-member ad valorem commission within the State Revenue Department to aid the tax commissioner in the perennial problem of equalizing property tax assessments among counties. It won 25-3 favor on general file.

The second bill, LB132, would permit the tax commissioner to collect a three percent fee for the collection of various minor taxes, with the funds raised going for the support of committee activities and distribution of an assessment manual for county assessors. It was approved 34-1.

Both bills were sponsored by an interim study committee on taxes which attempted last year to devise a method of equalizing assessments.

Try To Give Public Hearing To Bill Nixed By Legislature

By The Associated Press

A move to shift to a different committee for public hearing the bill calling for the election by districts of five of seven Lincoln city councilmen fell short in the Legislature Friday.

Lincoln Sen. Harold Simpson asked that his LB448 be moved from the Urban Affairs Committee to the Government Committee. He said speed was the only objective; that Government could hold a hearing next Friday, Feb. 9, whereas Urban Affairs could not hear the bill until Feb. 14.

The Simpson motion was favored 23-9, but needed 25 approving votes.

Fair Hearing

Surfacing during the debate was concern whether the bill would receive as fair a hearing from one committee as the other.

The Government Committee is headed by Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha, sponsor of a pending bill calling for the district election of councilmen in Omaha. That bill had been referred to the Government Committee.

The Urban Affairs Committee is headed by Sen. Duke Snyder of Omaha, a leading opponent of the Chambers Omaha bill.

Simpson said his LB448 must be enacted by March 7 to take effect in this year's Lincoln city election. He insisted the only reason for the committee shift was to speed the handling.

Common Courtesy

But Chambers said openly

he did not believe the bill would receive "a fair shake" before Snyder's committee, and said that for Snyder to refuse to advance the hearing date was to "deny a common courtesy."

Bills are assigned to committees by members of the Legislative Council executive board, sitting as a reference committee.

Lawmakers Thursday gave the Executive Board, headed by Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter, what was described as a "vote of confidence." The vote was 27-6, with 16 not voting.

Sen. Herb Nore of Genoa said that to reverse the bill assignment in this case was to repudiate Thursday's motion, although others disagreed.

City Council May Consider Motion For Electing Members By District

By LYNN ZERSCHLING Star Staff Writer

Twelve years ago Lincoln voters defeated a charter amendment calling for the election of City Council members by district.

As a result of a proposal introduced into the Legislature Thursday by Sen. Wally Barnett and other Lincoln senators, the City Council may consider a motion Monday calling for another such charter amendment.

A bill requiring district election of five of the seven council members was presented to the Legislature by three Lincoln lawmakers Thursday, with support promised from the Capitol City's two remaining senators.

Veteran City Councilwoman Helen Boosalis said she may introduce such a motion Monday, which if approved by the council, would direct the law department to draw up such an amendment.

That amendment would call for district election of council members. Currently, all seven are elected at large.

In the May 1960 election, Lincoln voters defeated the district election question by a vote of 14,343 to 10,874.

Responding to Barnett's comments that many people in Lincoln feel they are not being represented under the present system, Mrs. Boosalis stated, "I haven't heard a big clamor by citizens to elect their councilmen by districts."

"If that is the public desire — then I think we should put it on the ballot and let the people decide," she said.

She commented that the proposed legislation is an "erosion of our city powers," adding, "it is not beneficial for Lincoln."

At this time the issue is not whether council members should be elected by districts, she said, but whether a city with a home rule charter "has the right to determine its own form of government."

Both Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf and Council Chairman Dick Hartsock also have attacked Barnett's proposal.

Voter Purge Repealer Survives

By The Associated Press

A bill repealing the automatic purge provision in Nebraska's voter registration law survived attack by amendment Friday and received 34-4 first-round floor approval in the Legislature.

A law enacted in 1970 states that if a citizen fails to vote in two successive general elections, his voter registration is cancelled and he must re-register to vote.

The repealing bill, LB198, was sponsored by Sen. John J. Cavanaugh III of Omaha and Sen. Gary Anderson of Axtell. They told the Legislature Friday they are working with the secretary of state to develop an alternate procedure for making certain that voter registration lists are up to date and will bring in such legislation next year.

Voting against advancement of LB198 from general file were Sens. Gerald Stromer of Kearney, Herb Nore of Genoa, Walter Epke of York and Leslie Stull of Alliance.

Sen. Stromer proposed to retain the purge provision but liberalize it so that if a person voted in any two elections within a four-year period, beginning in 1976, his registration would remain valid. The Stromer amendment was rejected 23-12.

A voice vote turned down Omaha Sen. David Stahmer's proposed amendment which would require election officials to send a mailing each two years to each registered voter. If the addressee were not at the address listed, the mailing would be returned by postal authorities and make the registration subject to challenge. A procedure similar to this is in use in Douglas County.

The effects of the two-election purge provision became apparent for the first time after the general election last November. Sen. Cavanaugh had noted that thousands of Omahans were made ineligible to vote in the city's upcoming April 3 primary unless they reregister.

Backers of the repealer bill said it runs contrary to current efforts to encourage greater voter participation. It also affects elderly persons particularly, they said, because the elderly often have valid excuse for failing to get to the polls.

Lawmakers accepted an amendment offered to LB198 by Sen. Ramsey Whitney of Chappell, making clear that election officials must remove the names of dead persons from voter registration lists.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Wife Says Sister Is Now Pigeon

By ROBERT PETERSON

Question: — "My wife seems to have slipped a cog since passing 65. She lost her sister Peg last year, and a few weeks later confided in all seriousness that she'd learned in a dream Peg had been reincarnated as a pigeon. Now she insists on feeding the pigeons daily — even though there's an ordinance against it because of the mess they make. She buys two dollars worth of stale bread weekly and every day sneaks down to the street and tosses food to the birds. I tell her she's not only bats but is breaking the law. She claims there's nothing wrong with her head, and that Peg will protect her from the police. What should I do?"

Answer: — Maybe she needs psychiatric attention. But maybe she's just developed a fixation or eccentricity that's harmless and happens to be very real to her. Belief in reincarnation in animal form is not uncommon. The Hindus of India revere cows and monkeys as the reincarnation of their ancestors. Pigeon feeding may be against the law but police are generally tolerant and look the other way when they see an older person feeding pigeons out of the kindness of their hearts. If they knew your spouse was ministering to the reincarnation of her late sister they'd likely be even more tolerant of her crime.

was inundated with so much food she had to give it away. Maybe it didn't prove helpful in her case, but when I lost my husband relatives from out-of-town descended. One night I had 12 for dinner, 24 the next, and 15 the next. I was in no condition to cook or go out to restaurants and thanked God for the wonderful neighbors who brought food."

Answer: — You're right. Gifts of food are important where the family of the deceased expects many callers and out-of-town visitors. During bereavement folks don't want to go to restaurants and members of the family are in no mood to plan meals. Bringing gifts of food is a kindly neighborly custom, and it's better for the family of the deceased to be provided with more food than they need than not enough.

Question: — "I take particular pride in the fact that I'm 70 and don't wear glasses or dentures. Actually, my sight is poor and my teeth are bad. I can only eat soft foods and my teeth give me some pain. But my grandfather used to say you shouldn't coddle yourself by wearing artificial aids until you absolutely must. What do you think?"

Answer: — It's not coddling one's self to take advantage of scientific advancements. We don't hesitate buying home permanent, automatic washers, dryers and vacuum cleaners to make life easier. Why hesitate using scientific aids which make our bodies more efficient? Eyeglasses, dentures, and hearing aids are almost inevitable needs in very advanced years and it makes sense to start using them as the need arises.

Writes Mrs. E. B. of Houston, Tex.: "One of the great mysteries of life is how the boy who wasn't good enough to marry their daughter, can be the father of the smartest grandchild in the world."

Judges Say Police Don't Know What ASAP All About

In response to the Lincoln Police Department's support of LB290 and attack on the probation in drunk driving cases, Lincoln municipal judges said the police "don't know what the Alcoholic Safety Action Program (ASAP) is all about."

Judges Donald Grant and Thomas McManus indicated next week they would also have a letter to the Legislature with their position opposing the legislation "with figures and statistics to back it up."

Presiding Judge Grant said the police appear to be "emerging as a fourth arm of government contrary to all traditional concepts ever known."

He and Judge McManus noted that the executive branch of the city in the form of Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf, the legislative branch in the City Council and the judicial branch represented by the court have all stated opposition to the proposed legislation and support for ASAP and "here comes the Police Department along to say how the program should function."

The judges and Probation Officer Robert Keller pointed out that the arrests cited by the police are only one facet of the ASAP program.

They pointed out that because of the federal funds made available through the contract the city has with the federal government for ASAP, the city has a "beefed up force" to make the arrests.

The judges stated that what happens to these people after the arrests are made is the "court's business and not police business."

Judge McManus said he feels what "we're doing with them after they come to court—not before — is what's important."

"The police function stops at the courtroom door," he said.

Schmit Bitterly Denounces Environmentalists

By DOMINICK COSTELLO Farm Editor

State Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood bitterly denounced environmentalists at the close of a hearing by the Legislature's Agriculture Committee or a resolution asking that the federal government restore a major conservation program.

The resolution covered a number of federal programs, but most of the witnesses concentrated on the Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP).

"I am deeply disappointed that the environmentalists did not come forward to support this essential conservation program. They are ever critical of agriculture, but failed to support this vital conservation program. If the press chooses to describe my feelings as bitter, they will be highly accurate," Schmit said.

A parade of witnesses spoke favorably of the resolution which covered REAP, the Rural Electric Administration 2% loans and a number of other federal farm programs.

Schmit pointed to data gathered by the state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) at the request of the agricultural committee indicating that between 80 and 100 fish ponds were built under the REAP program each year and that other practices enhanced wildlife production.

Building Outlined

According to data presented by Paul Sindt, spokesman for the ASCS office, the REAP program built 47,017 dams, produced 140,500 miles of terraces, planted 65,861 acres of trees, 1,547,909 acres of grass, 106,377 acres of sod waterways and a host of other conservation practices.

Sindt told the committee, "We have gathered this data at the request of this committee, but as government employees you have to understand we cannot testify for or against the program."

There were no opponents to the resolution which the committee voted to pass on to the Legislature.

The committee also conducted a hearing on LB201 which would make an investigator for the State Department of Agriculture a state deputy with powers of arrest.

Several witnesses testified that the bill would permit an investigator to make an arrest without waiting for the arrival of a state patrolman or a local sheriff who was not trained to enforce state Department of Agriculture regulations.

$6,000 Added Cost
Bill Able, attorney for the Department of Agriculture, estimated the added cost of the bill at $6,000 for equipment. The department intends to use an investigator already on the staff for the job.

Sen. Richard Maresh of Milligan suggested several times during the hearing that the investigator be given additional arrest powers so he could arrest speeders and other law violators he might observe.

Most of the witnesses seemed to oppose the suggestion.

Willard Waldo, former state senator representing the Nebraska Pork Producers Association told the senators that the program had existed once before, but was killed because of such an arrest some years ago.

Officials of the Bureau of Animal Industry also indicated they felt the investigator would be much too busy to chase speeders.

Legislative Bills Introduced

Bills introduced in the Legislature Friday:

LB127 (Government Committee)—Eliminates state motor pool and provides "hot cars shall be assigned directly to agencies and departments."

LB477 (Schmit, for the governor)—Permits state expenditures to match county welfare funds for emergency assistance benefits.

Opera Napoleon Comes To Life

By EARL DYER
Star Staff Writer

The opera Napoleon came to life for the first time Friday night — a heavy piece, magnificently staged, gloriously sung, with music of heroic proportions to match the subject matter.

It was a triumph for the composer, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Professor Robert Beadell, and for the singers, the stage and costume designers, the orchestra and the choruses.

The work is set at the battle of Borodino, where Napoleon lost 30,000 men just before his ill-fated capture of Moscow, and in flashback-like scenes from the French emperor's life before and after.

And it is the battle of Borodino which hangs symbolically over the whole work—in the battle scene which greeted the audience when it arrived in the theater and which never was more than partly removed from the stage, in the plot which is heavy with the doom that befell the hero, and in the music itself.

The music of Professor Beadell is weighty, reminding one of Wagner as orchestra and voice combined with symbolic pageantry onstage to create a dramatic whole which was as impressive as it was depressing.

Powerful Music
It was powerful music, richly orchestrated, spiced with sections of electronic music which added much — heavy music, mostly, not relieved by much melody.

It reached a high point of power and richness in the tableaux of the second act when a stagelike of actors moved slowly about the lonely figure of Napoleon as panels of projected photographic images across the top of the stage spotlighted the figure and face of Napoleon among the dead of the battle.

The title role was given a properly heroic treatment by John Zei, whose voice and acting combined to weave a powerful image of the great man who had his moments of failing.

Supporting him in leading roles were Emily McKnight, whose physical beauty and bell-like voice ornamented the part of the Empress Josephine, and William Wallis, who sang the part of Duroc, Napoleon's lieutenant. Like Professor Zei, who heads the UNL opera program, Miss McKnight and Mr. Wallis are members of the UNL faculty.

Many other singers could be mentioned, but with 28 whose parts were substantial enough to merit listing on the program, it would be impossible to do justice to all. To this reviewer the performances of Jeannie Dietrich as Marie Walewska and Jon Gruett as Djessar Pasha stood out, as did the non-singing performance of Bruce Bonn as the unhappy Pope Pius VII at Napoleon's coronation.

The magnificence of the whole work was in large part due to the stage setting of Dean Tschetter, who with Wallis wrote the libretto.

Designed By Wife
And adding to that were the costumes designed by Tschetter's wife, Jane. The costuming task must have been formidable, with 133 persons in the cast. And there has probably never been presented in Lincoln a scene more richly costumed and set than the coronation scene.

Tschetter must also be commended for his stage direction, which moved large numbers of people very effectively to make the most of the music.

The conducting was done with a sure hand by musical director Richard Grace. He had a difficult task, with an orchestra, two choruses, a number of solo performers and the electronic music. Part of the credit for the way the entire performance held together and built to a sure climax must certainly be his.

The entire university school of music is to be commended for the successful performance of a work as large and complex as this.

The doors to Kimball Recital Hall carry notices that all four performances — Friday and Saturday nights of this week and next — are sold out except for cancellations. But Nebraskaans who missed getting tickets, or who couldn't attend for other reasons, can look forward to a full-color presentation on the state's educational television network, which has received a special grant to enable it to air the work.

Cutback To Shut Down NU Climatologist Office

By SHELLY KALKOWSKI
Star Staff Writer

Due to federal economic cutbacks, a 95-year-old Nebraska institution, the climatologist program, will close its Lincoln office within 90 days.

According to Nebraska climatologist Morris S. Webb Jr., the climatologist office serves as a resource for people requesting past weather information.

Industries and individuals interested in locating in Nebraska contact the office for such information as annual rainfall and snowfall, Webb said.

Important Resource
The climatologist office, located in Room 513, Nebraska Hall, on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus, has also been an important resource to college students and professors, Webb said.

"At one time or another, almost every department on the UNL campus has used our facilities," he said.

Students in agriculture and geology often use climatological records while doing research.

According to Webb, UNL Chancellor James Zumbeke has expressed a desire to keep the present climatologist records in Lincoln close to the UNL campus.

Dr. Norman Rosenberg, UNL horticulture professor, is organizing a faculty hearing next week which will concern itself with the fate of the climatologist records. Webb said he thinks representatives from the UNL library and the Nebraska State Historical Society also will be at the meeting.

Webb said there may be an attempt to make a provision for future climatological information to come into the university. He said that in the future, limited information will be available from the Lincoln and Omaha airports.

Two Here Affected
The cutback, which is closing state climatologist programs across the nation, will affect two staff members in Nebraska, Webb and his secretary. Weather forecasting services, also located in Nebraska Hall, will not be affected.

Nebraska's climatologist program began in 1878 when two NU professors, Gilbert E. Bailey and Wayland Bailey, organized the Nebraska Weather Service.

It had a volunteer staff until 1886 when the U.S. Army Signal Corps offered a full-time service in exchange for the climatologist observations. In 1893, the program's functions were assumed by the federal government.

The first section director for Nebraska's climatologist program was George A. Loveland, who served from 1897 to 1927. During Loveland's term the Nebraska Weather Service was disbanded.

Sen. Stennis Very Serious

Washington (AP) — Sen. John C. Stennis was described as still in "very serious condition" at Walter Reed Army hospital Friday afternoon, three days after he was shot twice by robbers outside his home.

Maj. Frank Garland, a hospital spokesman, said the Mississippi Democrat's surgeons are concerned about the danger of infection following more than six hours of emergency surgery for internal and pancreatic damage caused by the bullets.

But the spokesman said Stennis was resting well and "the vital signs are good." However, the senator's temperature remained slightly elevated throughout the day.

The progress was still guarded, Garland said at a 3 p.m. briefing and the surgeons reported it still was too early to determine when the 71-year-old senator could be considered out of the infection "danger period."

MAN TRAPPED BY HIS BOOTS

Charles J. Augusta, 21, of Raymond, was listed in fair condition at Lincoln General Hospital Friday night following a car-truck collision Friday afternoon on U.S. 34 at the north entrance to Lincoln Park West. According to the State Patrol, Augusta was eastbound on Hwy 34 when his auto was in collision with a semi trailer-truck driven by David A. Reicks, 32, of Omaha, as Reicks made a left turn into the Air Park entrance from the westbound lane of Hwy. 34. Augusta was pinned in the wreckage of his auto for several minutes until officers freed him by cutting his cowboy boots, according to witnesses.

'Peace Cabinet' Facing Great Tasks

Washington (AP) — President Nixon turned his second administration "to the challenge of peace" Friday at a mass swearing in of 20 new members of his cabinet and subcabinet.

He said he would now describe the 14 members of his cabinet as "a peace cabinet," who would face tasks "just as great as those in war."

Eight new members of the cabinet and 12 of subcabinet rank took the oath of office in the unusual 35-minute ceremonies in the East Room of the White House.

Only one of Nixon's new cabinet nominees was not included, Caspar Weinberger, former director of the Office of Management and Budget, whom Nixon has designated as his new secretary of health, education and welfare, is awaiting Senate confirmation.

Chief Justice Warren Burger, who has been ill with the flu, got out of sick bed to administer the oath individually to all 20 of the new appointees. Nixon said he thought the chief justice "deserves a little hand" for that and there was a big round of applause.

Nixon jokingly suggested that Burger not get too close to any of the members of the cabinet, though. "We can't afford any time off," Nixon said. As for himself, Nixon declared, "I am immune, so it doesn't bother me."

Starting with Secretary of Defense Elliot Richardson, the official stepped up one by one with their wives or family members holding the Bible to recite the oath of office.

The ceremonies elevated a woman, Ann L. Armstrong of Texas to the cabinet as counselor to the President. She thus became the highest ranking woman in the administration, with a salary of $42,500.

Only Secretary of State William P. Rogers of Nixon's original first term cabinet remains in the same post in the second term.

In his reshuffling and reorganization to put new steam to his second term, Nixon shifted a number of cabinet members to other posts in addition to adding some new faces.

The White House provided some statistics on the new cabinet, noting that the average age of its members is 53 and that it geographically represents 10 states.

The youngest members at 45, are Mrs. Armstrong and James Lynn, secretary of housing and urban development. The oldest, at 63, is Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz.

Some of the families of the new officials brought family Bibles for the oath-taking. But President Nixon also provided each with a new Bible to commemorate the occasion.

Change Of Venue Won In Alleged Pipe Scheme

Omaha (AP) — Five defendants indicted with the Northern Natural Gas Co. of Omaha on an alleged pipeline right-of-way bribery scheme have won a change of venue in U.S. District Court.

Judge Robert Denney Friday handed down decisions severing indictments against the five and transferring the charges to the jurisdiction of courts in Indiana and Illinois.

The five transferred from U.S. District Court are:

Edward Dowling, former mayor of Hammond, Ind.; Joseph Klen, current mayor of Hammond, John Nicolsia, former mayor of East Chicago, Ind.; Gabriel Dutorie, permit engineer for the Cook County, Ill., Highway Department; and Herman Davis, a driver's license examiner in the office of the Illinois secretary of state. The five were named in a six-count indictment.

Three other persons will be tried in Omaha. They are:

Delbert Calvert, a former official of Northern Natural Gas, James Smith, formerly of Northern Natural Gas and now with Hydro Carbon Transportation, Inc.; George Lamb, city controller of East Chicago.

Three corporations were named in the indictment:

Northern Natural Gas, and two of its subsidiaries—Hydro Carbon Transportation, and Northern Natural Gas Products Co.

Denny said he would begin omnibus pre-trial proceedings Feb. 21.

The indictments were handed down by federal grand juries in Omaha, Hammond and East Chicago last year.

Hells Angels Club Member Is Arraigned After Assault

A 28-year-old Omahan who police say is a member of the Hells Angels motorcycle club was arraigned Friday on two charges in Lancaster County Court in connection with an assault Thursday night which sent a Lincoln man to St. Elizabeth's Health Center.

Leslie R. Fitzgerald, 28, charged with two felony offenses of assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury and carrying a concealed weapon.

Preliminary hearing in County Court was set March 21 on both charges and bond was set at $3,500.

According to police reports, witnesses said Fitzgerald hit Danny Masters, 23, of 4542 Cooper on the head with a can following an argument Thursday night at Pershing Auditorium.

Masters was treated for head injuries and released. Fitzgerald's female companion said the argument started when Masters refused to remove his feet from the aisle as they attempted to pass.

According to police reports, Fitzgerald had a folding knife with a 3 to 4-inch blade in his possession when arrested.

Police Probe Theft Of Bills Worth $526

Lincoln police Friday were investigating the theft of a stack of mutilated bills worth $526 from a teller's cage at the City National Bank, 20th and O.

According to police, the bills, all in denominations of $20 or less, apparently were taken from the teller's cage when the teller left temporarily.

According to bank officials all the bills had been deemed not fit for circulation.

Truck Dented; Son OK, But Dad Is Not

Axtell (UPI) — Jeff Wurtele celebrated his third birthday Thursday while his father hobbled around with a bad back—all because Jeff's pre-birthday present turned out to be more than either of them bargained for.

Wurtele, an Axtell businessman, had to make a business trip to Omaha this week. Since sons celebrate their birthday only once a year, he decided to take Jeff along for the "big trip."

Everything was a typical father-son excursion until the two reached Omaha, drove down to the city's 9th St. Warehouse District and backed their pickup up against the warehouse dock.

Wurtele then said to Jeff, "stay right here. Dad is going inside to place an order, and I'll be back in a minute."

"I went in, placed the order and started to make a phone call," Wurtele recalled. "I just happened to look outside and, no truck."

"I dashed out and there it was—going down the street. It had gone out of the lot, across the railroad tracks and right into the street as straight as an arrow."

"I could see Jeff's little blond head bouncing about even with the steering wheel."

Wurtele reacted just like any other normal American dad would — he raced after the truck.

"But it was a block away. I saw it coming," he said. "Jeff was headed straight for a huge freight truck parked on the street."

"Gosh, I don't know how fast

Jeff was going. He was standing up behind the wheel. I'm glad he couldn't reach the gas pedal because he knows that makes it go faster."

Then wham!

Jeff, who wasn't really prepared for his first driving lesson, hit the freight truck broadside, while his father, perhaps a split second later, hit a patch of ice.

"I sailed through the air and hit the pavement flat on my back," said Wurtele.

The cost for Jeff's pre-birthday present: No damages to the freight truck. No injuries to Jeff. $50 damages to the pickup.

And dad is still walking very slowly.

Most Mail To Vietnam To Be Ended

The U. S. Postal Service has announced the discontinuance of most mail to Vietnam military post office addresses, effective Feb. 5, according to a post office dispatch.

Post offices will no longer accept second-class mail (including airtel eligible publications), third-class mail, and surface parcels. The Department of Defense has requested the Postal Service to discontinue the acceptance of SAM and PAL parcels and all airmail or priority mail parcels on Feb. 5. Only letter mail will move beyond San Francisco after this date.

Personal letter mail to Vietnam military post offices must be mailed prior to March 1, 1973, or delivery prior to the discontinuance of the military post offices cannot be assured.

SKYLINE TERRACE MEADOW LANE

Although we have a feeling that our hopes will not be borne out to the extent that we'd like, we can't help but observe that, with the month of January a thing of the past, the worst part of the winter seems to be over.

When February makes its annual appearance, it brings with it a hint of spring. Warm-weather fashions will soon be featured in the window displays in stores throughout the city; and it won't be too long before mufflers and mittens give way to umbrellas and raincoats. And, as everyone is probably aware, the days already are noticeably longer than they were just several weeks ago.

However, getting back to our original reservation concerning the passage of winter, we'd like to add that anyone who has lived in Nebraska for longer than a week realizes that seasons do not necessarily take their cues from the calendar. On many occasions, hopes for an early spring have been dashed by the occurrence of a February or March blizzard.

It appears that the weatherman has sole access to the key that will open the door to spring — and he obviously isn't going to tell us what he has in store!

With all of the activities that have been occurring, and are about to occur, in suburbia however, we have a feeling the Lincoln residents have had little if any time to wonder about how much longer winter will last. This weekend will be a typically busy one in most suburban homes, and one of the most active places will be the Meadow Lane residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lamb and family.

Arriving today for a two-day visit at the Lamb home will be Mrs. Lamb's brothers-in-law and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Dalton and children, Carrie and Gay, of Des Moines, Iowa, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Folger and sons, Dennis, Gary and Kevin of Sioux City, Iowa.

On Sunday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Lamb's daughter, Angela, and Mr. and Mrs. Dalton's daughter, Carrie, will be the guests of honor at a special birthday dinner to be held at the Lamb home. Both of the young ladies' birthdays occur on Feb. 6, and also taking part in the two-days-early celebration will be Mrs. Lamb's uncle and aunt.

Weekend Meetings

The many women's organizations about town are constantly on the go — undertaking community projects, holding interesting program meetings, sponsoring annual special events, and the like.

We find that weekends rarely interfere with those worthy club activities, as evidenced by the many meetings and special functions planned for this particular weekend.

For example, the members of the Ceres Club have planned a 1:30 o'clock meeting which will be held at the C. Y. Thompson Library — on the University of Nebraska's East Campus — on Saturday afternoon, Feb. 3.

"Hello, Operator, Give Me No. 9" will be the topic of the program which will be presented by Al Farmer, who is a collector of antique telephones.

The Senior Planning Board of the Homestead Girl Scout Council will have a 9:30 o'clock meeting in Room 410 of the Lincoln Center Building on Saturday morning, Feb. 3.

A Mother-Daughter Tea for District 2 of the Lincoln Council of Camp Fire Girls, Inc., will be held at the Fairhill United Presbyterian Church, 880 So. 35th St., at 2:30 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 4.

Beta Sigma Phi sorority will have its annual Valentine Tea on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 4. The festivity, at which the 17 candidates for the city-wide queen contest will be introduced, will be held at Union Loan and Savings, 1776 So. 70th St., at 2 o'clock.

St. Leger Cowley Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will hold its Founder's Day dinner at Hotel Radisson-Cornhusker on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 4. The annual event is scheduled for 12:30 o'clock.

MISS SUSAN CONNICK

Town and campus will share interest this morning in the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Connick of Fremont, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Susan Kay, to S. Thomas Epp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Epp of Lincoln.

The wedding is planned for Thursday, March 22, and the ceremony will be solemnized at the Faith Lutheran Church.

Miss Connick is a coed at the University of Nebraska where she is majoring in nursing.

Mr. Epp also is attending the University of Nebraska where his major is journalism.

in the suburban areas

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Harvey of Omaha.

Also doing a bit of entertaining this weekend are Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Newman and family. Enjoying a visit at the Newman home are Mr. Newman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Newman of Bellevue, who arrived in Lincoln Friday evening.

The visitors will return to their home tomorrow evening.

A combined business and pleasure trip is on the agenda next week for Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hall. Mr. and Mrs. Hall will depart on Tuesday, and their destination will be Milwaukee, Wis. where Mr. Hall will attend a business conference.

Mrs. Hall tells us that she plans to do a bit of shopping during their two-day stay in Milwaukee, and on Thursday, the couple will travel to Fond du Lac, Wis. We understand that some 15 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Hall made their home in Fond du Lac, and we're certain that they will have a most enjoyable time renewing old acquaintances in that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall will return to Lincoln on Sunday Feb. 11.

Looking ahead a week, we know of another suburban couple who will travel to Minnesota next Friday for the purpose of attending a wedding anniversary celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Davis will motor to Mankato, Minn. next weekend, where they will take part in a reception honoring Mrs. Davis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Janssen, on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Janssen reside in Mankato, and the reception will take place on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 11, at their home.

While in Minnesota, Mr. and Mrs. Davis also plan to visit with a number of Mr. Davis' family members before returning to Lincoln on Tuesday, Feb. 13.

Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale Discusses A Number Of Contemporary Issues

According to Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale, "The greatest career for a woman — and the hardest — is being a wife." Commenting at a press conference Friday morning, prior to a speaking engagement with the members of the Nebraska Legislative Ladies League, Mrs. Peale continued by observing that a woman should pursue her homemaking obligations "as diligently as she would a career."

Mrs. Peale, whose husband is a noted clergyman and author, then added that a woman's second most important role is that of mother. However, using herself as an example, Mrs. Peale (who has served with a number of religious and social concerns, written a book, and currently serves as co-publisher of an interfaith monthly magazine, in addition to raising a family of three children) also observed that being a wife and mother does not necessarily exclude the possibility of a career.

When asked about her feelings concerning the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA), Mrs. Peale stated, "I feel like I have had equal rights all my life. I've been liberated all my life." In many cases, she feels that Women's Lib advocates are simply "making a lot of noise. A woman should not be put in a position just because she's a woman, but because she deserves it."

She did state, however, that in some cases it is necessary to have laws to protect individual rights — for example, to guarantee a woman equal pay for equal work.

Regarding the phenomenon of young people drifting away from organized religion, Mrs. Peale stated that she does not believe that all churches are having this problem. Citing several examples of young peoples' involvement in activities at the Marble Collegiate Church in New York City, where her husband serves as minister, she noted that her experience indicates that individuals in the 21 to 35 year age group do not feel alienated from the church.

Mrs. Peale went on to add that, when people begin to seek spiritual guidance from other sources, it should serve as an indication to individual churches that they are not providing the proper kind of guidance.

Audition Winners To Be Presented

It may be difficult for the countless devotees of the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra to realize that the Lincoln Symphony is approaching its golden anniversary. It now is in its 47th season.

Almost since the very beginning of Lincoln's Symphony Orchestra and the Lincoln Symphony Association have devoted a portion of each season to young musicians who participate in the auditions and who later, as winners, may have the opportunity of appearing with the orchestra at one of its concerts.

Two of the current season's audition winners, Daniel Kean of Dawson, pianist and Melva Lou Johnson of Lincoln, cellist, will be on the program when the Lincoln Symphony presents its fourth concert of the season on Tuesday evening Feb. 13, at the O'Donnell Auditorium on the Nebraska Wesleyan University campus.

Young Mr. Dean the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Dean, is a senior at Sacred Heart High School in Falls City, and is studying piano with Mrs. Beth Miller Harrod. At the concert he will perform the first movement Allegro Moderato, from the "Concerto for Piano in A Minor Opus 16" by Edward Grieg.

Miss Johnson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin A. and is a sophomore at Union College, and is a cello student of Mrs. Carol Work, a member of the Union College music faculty. Miss Johnson will play Bloch's Rhapsody "Schelomo" for cello and orchestra.

Both Mr. Dean and Miss Johnson have numerous achievements to their credit. The young pianist began his studies at the age of eight and has pursued them continuously ever since. He participated in the youth auditions for the Kansas City Philharmonic when he was in the eighth grade, and was selected as a finalist.

In 1972 he was one of five audition winners chosen by the Omaha Symphony Orchestra and performed with the Symphony in a series of children's concerts. He began his piano work with Beth Miller Harrod in 1971 and at the Rocky Ridge Music Center in Estes Park, Colo., in 1972 he was awarded a certificate of highest achievement, and a partial scholarship to Rocky Ridge for summer 1973.

Miss Johnson's first cello teacher, at the age of 10, was her father, a violinist who plays with the Lincoln Symphony. As a matter of fact her father was one of the great motivating factors as she grew up with music. Mr. Johnson organized a family string quartet which included himself, his young daughter and his two sons. The young lady, who now is in her second season with the Lincoln Symphony — but that isn't all she does. She plays the viola in the Union College Orchestra, sings, and also has a talent as a piano accompanist.

One of the bright lights that has guided the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra on its road to success during the years, has been the sparkling Lincoln Symphony Guild which always has a project

One of those projects is the "Hearts and Flowers" benefit dessert luncheon and bridge party which is planned for Monday, Feb. 19, and which will be held at the Brandeis auditorium. Luncheon is at 12:30, and there are to be favors and prizes, plus plenty of fun.

Reservations must be made before Wednesday, Feb. 14, and to obtain them one may call either Mrs. Paul Scott, 488 6652, or Mrs. Frederick Blumer, 466 0880.

The proceeds from the party go, of course, to the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra.

tell him to find another goat

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am wondering about a young man who called me up, saying he got my name from the La Leche League — an organization to which I belong that provides mother's milk for babies. This man said his wife had died in childbirth and his baby needed mother's milk.

Being a nursing mother for the La Leche League, I agreed to help him out. I expressed the milk out of my breasts by hand and put it in jars, and the man stopped by to pick it up. After a few weeks, he broke down and confessed there was no baby, and he had been drinking the milk himself because he has an ulcer and had heard that mother's milk would help relieve the pain. Then he had the nerve to ask me if I would let him nurse direct! I told him I couldn't go along with that.

Should I report him to the police or what? I told him "no" several times but he keeps calling me. He said he isn't interested in sex, only milk. Is this possible?

ANDREA

DEAR ANDREA: It's possible. Tell him goat's milk is also good for ulcers, so he should find another goat!

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I decided to will our bodies to a university medical school because we understood they were needed in their teaching program. So far, we have been turned down by FOUR medical schools.

The last turn-down came from Yale Medical School. We received what appeared to be a form letter stating in part: "Because of the extremely generous response to our Willing Body Program, we are currently at a maximum of our needs and therefore this program is now temporarily closed. We shall place your name and address in our file of prospective donors. When we are able to reopen this program you will then automatically receive the necessary documents for donation of your remains to the University.

Is this the case all over? Sign this.

ALL DRESSED UP AND NOWHERE TO GO

DEAR DRESSED: I suggest that anyone interested in leaving his remains to a medical school get in touch with the one nearest him and inquire.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

A Friday Bride

At 8 o'clock on Friday evening, Feb. 2, the wedding of Miss Debra Sue Sexton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sexton, and Larry Dale Deubelbeiss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Deubelbeiss, took place at the First Presbyterian Church. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Larry Brown.

Mrs. Stanley Busch of Marysville, Kan., was her sister's matron of honor, and the two bridesmaids were Miss Cathy Kye and Miss Gayle Deubelbeiss.

At/c Gary Deubelbeiss of Sheppard AFB, Texas, served his brother as best man, and seating the guests were Gary Sexton of Roca, Darrell Lee, Charles Grigs and Tony Laws.

The bride chose a gown of ribbed faille satin for her wedding. The bodice, which narrowed to a slender, natural waistline above a floor-length, widely pleated skirt, was patterned with an embroidered motif of pearls, and the pearl motif was repeated on the standup collar and the long sleeves. A train, caught at the back waistline and extending into chapel length, gave back interest to the gown. A pearl-embroidered Camelot cap held to the head her train-length veil of illusion, and she carried a bouquet of white sweetheart roses and lilac-toned carnations.

Upon their return from a honeymoon trip Mr. Deubelbeiss and his bride will reside at 3141 No. 46th St.

Opening lead - king of hearts.

A one-suit squeeze is like the dodo bird — it is largely nonexistent. Nonetheless, there are hands where this rare avis makes its presence known — and here is such a case.

West commences hostilities with the K-A and another heart, ruffed by East. East makes the natural club return, the king losing to the ace, and back comes another club to South's queen. Declarer now cashes the A-K-J of trumps and jack of South continues with the ten of spades and East finds himself in an awkward position. If he discards the five of diamonds, declarer plays a low diamond from his hand, following low from dummy, and East is end-played. He makes a diamond trick, but no more.

East does no better if he discards the ten of diamonds on the ten of spades. In that case, declarer likewise plays a low diamond toward dummy, adjusting his play in accordance with the card West produces: 1. If West follows with the three, South covers with the six and East is end-played.

2. If West follows with the nine, South covers with the queen, which loses to the king. But East must now return a diamond from the J-5 into South's A-8, which sit over him like a tent. East is helpless, whatever he does, and the one-suit squeeze works like a charm.

Delta Air Lines Fined $2,000

Washington (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration fined Delta Air Lines $2,000 Friday for permitting Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., to board a plane without going through preliminary security checks.

The FAA said the violation occurred at Weir Cook Airport, Indianapolis, Jan. 15. The maximum civil penalty for an FAA rules violation is $1,000.

The agency said Delta was negligent on two counts with regard to Hartke—failing to require him to submit to the magnetometer metal detection device at the boarding gate, and failure to examine his carry-on luggage.

Hartke insisted the airline had no constitutional right to impose the FAA security regulations on a senator. Attendees allowed him to board the Atlanta-bound flight.

The FAA has accused Allegheny of similarly allowing Hartke to board a plane at Evansville, Ind., also on Jan. 15. The agency said it is still investigating that incident.

IN THE OPINION OF THE COURT

Scriptures selected by the American Bible Society

Copyright 1973 Keister Advertising Service, Inc., Strasburg, Virginia

Crime, drug abuse, sexual license, contempt for society — on all counts the situation is worse, not better. Why do we no longer hear much about juvenile and parental delinquency?

First, the more common evil becomes, the less it is called delinquency. Lower standards enough and there are no delinquents!

Second, it wasn't juvenile or parental delinquency that caused our plight. It was spiritual delinquency. Millions in our society set their spiritual standards at a level where such delinquency became custom.

The thing to do with an opinion like this is to REVERSE it. That can be done by a Higher Court — such as an aroused citizenry, seeking every spiritual opportunity and fulfilling every religious responsibility that its churches provide and teach.

Todd Says Tuition Hike Would Cut Enrollment

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Dr. James Todd, executive secretary of the state College Board of Trustees, expressed disappointment Friday with Gov. J. James Exon's proposed tuition hike for the four-campus system which would cost students an added $620,000 annually.

Todd felt that the tuition increases might worsen the decline in enrollment at Peru, Wayne, Chadron and Kearney State Colleges.

'Related To Costs'
"The enrollment levels at the four state colleges are related to student costs. A tuition increase could drive a wedge between the students and the colleges. This eventually is contrary to the plan of the state colleges for improving the efficiency of the colleges by increasing student utilization of campus buildings and facilities.

Exon's recommendations, as contained in his fiscal 1974 budget recommendation, would raise tuition by 28% for resident students and by 23% for non-resident students carrying 15 hours. The Board of Trustees had recommended a more modest increase.

Under Exon's plan the current resident tuition for 15 credit hours would jump from $181.50 to $232.50—$51.00 more than the board had requested.

Non-resident tuition for 15 hours would be increased by $77 from $335.50 to $412.50. The board had asked that non-residents pay $345.

"Concern is expressed over the impact of the governor's budget on the access of students to educational opportunities," Todd said. "The governor's budget would result in major tuition increases, and would deprive students of educational opportunities in state colleges.

"In addition, the decision to reduce the level of federal assistance for student financial aid will aggravate the situation.

"The student will be confronted with higher tuition rates and lower levels of federal student aids."

The governor's operating budget for the four colleges in 1974 is $482,527 below their fiscal 1973 level of $16.3 million. The colleges had requested $17.4 million.

Beyond the tuition increase, Todd said the governor's rejection of the state colleges' attempt to "reach out" to serve those not currently being served by higher education is an item of major concern.

'Curtail Goals'
"The governor's budget will curtail the colleges' goals of adjusting to the need of regional services and for restructuring the instructional programs as the needs of the people change," he said.

He noted the governor did recommend a "small" appropriation for improvement and continuing education services.

In addition, Todd indicated Exon's proposal will also hamper managerial functions, such as maintenance and upkeep of the buildings at the four campuses.

"The physical plant operations have been of serious concern on all campuses, and reductions in support are viewed with apprehension. Furthermore, cuts in personnel in the business offices could affect the efficiency of those fiscal operations."

Rivers Will Be Freed After 7 Years A POW

Seward — U.S. Navy Capt. Wendell Rivers, a prisoner of war in North Vietnam for the past seven years, will soon be released, according to word received here by his aunt, Mrs. Elvira Dunbaugh.

Capt. Rivers' wife and children, Charlotte, 18, and Stewart, 13, live in Arlington, Va. An older son, Stephen, 19, is married and is an Army sergeant stationed at Monterey, Calif. Stephen has served in Vietnam as a flying-door gunner on a helicopter and received a small shrapnel wound while participating in combat. Capt. Rivers was graduated from Seward High School in May, 1946, with an outstanding athletic, musical and class leadership record. He was the state Class B 180-yard champion in 1946 and was chosen all-conference in football two years and in basketball three years.

Both of his parents, Clayton and Lucille Rivers, longtime Seward residents, died while he was a prisoner. His sister, Mrs. Robert (Phyllis) Johnson, lives in Granada Hills, Calif.; a brother, Leslie, is in Livermore, Calif.; and another brother, Roland, lives in Granola, Kan.

Hope Glimmers For MIA

Bellevue (P) — The family of a Nebraskans still listed as missing in action (MIA), in Indochina found some hope in the identification Thursday of seven servicemen being held prisoner in Laos.

Maj. Norbert A. Götner, one of the seven, was pilot for Lt. Robert L. Standerwick of Bellevue when their plane was shot down over Laos two years ago.

"I don't know whether it's a good sign or bad," said Col. Standerwick's wife after Götner was identified as a POW.

"But it does give us the added hope that we might know eventually what happened," she said.

Carleton Man Found Dead In Wreckage Of Light Plane

Morrowville, Kan. (P) — The body of a Carleton, Neb., man was found Friday in the wreckage of a light plane which had been missing since Wednesday night.

Walter Magnus, 34, died in the crash of the Piper Tri-Pacer aircraft. The single-engine plane was found in a field near the bank of a creek, authorities reported.

The wreckage was found less than a mile from U.S. 36 in Kansas, some 20 miles south and 10 miles west of Fairbury.

Magnus is survived by his widow and three children.

Some 25 airplanes, four helicopters and more than 100 ground personnel were involved in the search for the plane.

The plane left Washington, Kan., Wednesday night on a flight to Hebron.

Rescuers had centered much of their search efforts in an area around Carleton due to civilian reports of a low-flying aircraft there, Wednesday night.

First Greatwest, First Mid America To Combine

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

The First Greatwest Corp., a Lincoln-based holding company, and First Mid America, Inc., a Midwestern investment banking firm, have agreed to combine, it was announced Friday.

The announcement came at a Friday afternoon press conference from John Binning, president of First Greatwest, and Dale Tinstman, president of First Mid America.

The transaction, exceeding $5 million, will allow the firms to have a greater economic impact on the area than they could have separately, according to Binning.

"We have faith in this (Midwestern) area," Binning said. "We think that the next 10 years in agriculture will be something to behold," Tinstman said.

Developments Cited
He cited such recent developments favoring agriculture as the recent cutbacks in crop acreage allotments, grain sales to Russia and an increase in cattle feeding in Nebraska. Tinstman said that while the transaction will have no immediate impact on the "average man," it will be a factor in the growth of the Midwestern economy, which will affect everyone in the region.

The transaction, according to Binning, adds to the ability of the firms to "assemble the capital needed for investment needed in this area."

According to the terms of the $5 million transaction, approximately 400,000 First Greatwest shares would be exchanged for substantially all of the stock of First Mid America.

First Mid America will continue its operations as an autonomous subsidiary of First Greatwest, with M. J. Warren continuing as chairman of the board of First Mid America.

$50 Million Assets
Joe Morton, chairman of the board of First Greatwest, said the combination of the firm's assets would total $50 million, with a net worth of $15 million.

The agreement requires approval of the New York Stock Exchange, Inc., other exchanges of which First Mid America is a member of with which it is affiliated, and other regulatory agencies, as well as board and stockholder acceptance.

Tinstman noted that it was only on Monday that the New York Stock Exchange voted to permit this type of amalgamation.

First Mid America employs 262 persons and has offices in four states, including Lincoln, Omaha, Hastings, Grand Island and Columbus, Neb.; Sioux City, Atlantic, Cedar Rapids, Fort Dodge and Des Moines, Iowa; Kansas City, Mo., and Chicago, Ill.

Other subsidiaries of First Greatwest are Great West Casualty of South Sioux City, Protective Fire & Casualty Co. of Seward, Lincoln Benefit Life Co. of Lincoln; Joe Morton & Son, Inc., and Great West Underwriters, both of South Sioux City, Midwest Insurance of Grand Island, Motor-Ways, Inc., of Des Moines, Iowa, and National Adjustment Co., of South Sioux City.

Groundhog Says Winter Will Linger

If the Groundhog day legend bears any truth, winter weather will continue in Nebraska for at least another six weeks.

Sunny skies Friday afternoon provided a shadow for Mr. Groundhog. And, according to the theory, the animal returned to his hibernation quarters for six weeks, or until warmer weather arrives.

However, the National Weather Service may be ignoring Mr. Groundhog because the forecast calls for warmer weather in Nebraska Saturday and Sunday.

Highs Saturday are expected to be in the lower 40s in the east to around 50 in the west. Sunday's highs should reach the mid 40s in the east to the lower 50s in the west.

Thursday's rain and snowfall amounted to .17 of an inch of moisture for Lincoln, bringing this year's total precipitation to 1.31, compared to a normal of .64 up to this time.

Zumberge Gives Report On Housing

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Omaha — The University of Nebraska Board of Regents Friday heard a progress report on the possibility of building additional married student housing on the Lincoln campus.

The report came from UNL Chancellor James Zumberge at an informal regents meeting which preceded a formal meeting set for Saturday morning.

Zumberge said UNL has investigated the feasibility of duplicating an existing married student housing on the East Campus and also the possibility of building 40 two- and three-bedroom units.

Zumberge said UNL has investigated the feasibility of two different plans to increase married student housing. One plan would create 40 units on a nearly identical plan as the present 57 units. There would be 30 one-bedroom units and 10 two-bedroom units in this plan.

Little Demand
The existing facilities contain both one-bedroom and two-bedroom units, Zumberge said. But the chancellor said there is little demand for one-bedroom units.

A second plan would create 40 units of a different style with 32 two-bedroom units and 8 three-bedroom units. The cost of this plan would be $885,000.

He told the regents that he is leaning toward further study of the feasibility of this plan.

Zumberge appeared to reject identical construction on the basis of space which he says is wasted in the way existing units are built.

The regents asked Zumberge to give them a full report on the married housing studies and to bring a recommendation to their March meeting.

Still unknown, Zumberge said, is how construction of any such units might be financed. He noted that the Department of Housing and Urban development has instituted and 18-month freeze on a program which the university might have been able to turn.

Very Low Interest
That program was a special program which previously provided very low interest loans for financing such projects.

In other matters, several members of the board met with student leaders from the three campuses and discussed a variety of subjects, including the legislative bill which would permit the university to add student representation to the Board of Regents.

The board adjourned to the closed session to discuss personnel matters, including Zumberge's recommendations on appointments for faculty members age 65 and older in the 1973-74 academic year.

The board will meet in formal session at 11 a.m. Saturday in the Student Center at UNO.

C&NW Reports Net Income Of $4.5 Million

Chicago (P) — The Chicago and North Western Transportation Co., employee-owned operator of the Chicago and North Western Railway, reported consolidated net income of $4,506,000 during the fourth quarter of 1972.

Total operating revenue amounted to $95,284,000.

The company took over the railway June 1, 1972. For the seven months of 1972 consolidated net income was $9,261,000 on total operating revenue of $216,404,000.

There are 72,825 shares of Class A common stock outstanding.

Tipoff — 7:35 p.m. NU Coliseum.

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

One year ago, Kansas State was sidetracked on its way to the Big Eight title by underdog Nebraska in one of the Huskers' classic basketball comebacks.

NU shocked the Wildcats, who finished with a 12-2 record in winning the Big Eight championship, 61-60, at the Coliseum despite falling behind 51-39 midway through the second half.

Could history be repeated?

"Sure, it can happen again," NU basketball coach Joe

Cipriano said. "We did have a much improved effort against Iowa State (an 81-60 loss Tuesday night at Ames) and if we keep improving, who knows?"

Cipriano will discover the answer when KSU invades the Coliseum for a 7:35 p.m. Saturday match against the team that must be rated the Big Eight favorite.

The Wildcats, 13-3 overall and tied with Colorado for the league lead with a 3-1 mark, are rated 13th nationally by United Press International and 18th by The Associated Press.

"KSU is probably the best team right now in the Big Eight," Cipriano asserted. "They have good size, they get the ball up and down the court well. They play a variety of defenses, but mainly a zone."

Size will definitely be in KSU's favor Steve Mitchell at 6-10, Larry Williams at 6-9 and Ernie Kusnyer at 6-5 1/2 form a potent frontline.

Mitchell, the team leader in rebounds (9.5-per-game) and scoring (16.1 average) is 10th on the all-time KSU scoring chart. Kusnyer, second in both categories behind Mitchell, is the 10th all-time leading KSU scorer.

The guard position is another KSU strong point. Probable starters Lon Kruger and Bob Chipman will be spelled often by Danny Beard giving the Wildcats perhaps the best guard trio in the Big Eight.

"They're a pretty well-balanced team," Cipriano said. "Kusnyer has a good outside shot and Beard and Kruger can also hit from the outside. Mitchell is strictly a center and he's tougher than most people realize. He's an excellent player and they (KSU) have plenty of bench strength to back them up."

The Huskers, 1-3 in conference action and 6-10 overall, are hoping that sophomore Kent Reckewey will be able to return to the lineup. The former Lincoln East standout has been stricken with the flu and missed Tuesday's Iowa State game.

Kansas State holds a 76-55 edge in the series, although Nebraska has a 11-10 edge on the Wildcats in Lincoln since the 1952 season. Cipriano is 10-11 against the Wildcats at Nebraska, while Kansas State coach Jack Hartman has never won in Lincoln losing 87-71 in 1971 and 61-60 last year.

Coach Lonnie Porter's Nebraska junior varsity basketball team, with a 4-1 record, faces the Kansas State junior varsity, winners of six of seven contests in a 5:15 p.m. preliminary contest.

—KU, CU INVADING— NU Thinclads Set For Indoor Debut

Nebraska's 1973 track team makes its indoor debut Saturday at Memorial Stadium in what will be a preview of the Big Eight championships slated for March.

Coach Frank Sevigne will be shooting for his 100th win at Nebraska where his teams have a 99-31-1 record in dual and triangular meets.

Some of the Big Eight's brightest track and field stars will swing into action under the East Stadium when Nebraska hosts Colorado and Kansas in the opening triangular.

Last winter Nebraska dethroned perennial loop champion Kansas, and both will have contending teams again this year at Kansas City.

Field events will commence at 1 p.m., with the first running event firing off at 2 p.m.

Tipoff: 7:30 p.m., Ira Taylor Gym, Sarda & Huntington.

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Nebraska Wesleyan athletic director Woody Greeno, may have to lock the doors again.

The Plainsmen host Doane Saturday night in a battle for the lead in the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. NWU is 3-1 in the NIAC and the Tigers are 3-0.

In the past Greeno has been forced to lock the doors to Ira J. Taylor Gym from the outside after a capacity crowd filled the gym.

"The state fire marshal's office only allows us to have so many people in the gym and when that number is reached, we lock the doors so no more can get in," Greeno explained.

"However, people at the game can leave because the doors will be unlocked on the inside," he continued. "But once anyone leaves the gym, they'll have to stay out because they won't be able to get back in."

And a capacity crowd is expected for the important conference game for both teams.

Doane coach Bob Erickson says the key to his team winning will be defense and rebounding. "We've got to stop Wesleyan's fast break," Erickson said.

"If we do a good job on the boards, that will help slow Wesleyan's fast break and if we play well on defense, Wesleyan will have trouble scoring."

While Erickson respects the outside shooting of NWU, his team has shown great improvement in the same area.

"We made 50 per cent of our shots in our win over Hastings and about the same figure in the second half against Concordia," the Tiger coach pointed out.

"Earlier this season we weren't doing that well and we lost some ball games we probably shouldn't have, if we would have shot well."

Erickson is also hoping his team will not have a mental meltdown after the Hastings game.

"We were emotionally drained after the Hastings game because we were so ready for it and it meant so much to us," he explained.

"But this game means just as much, so we'll have to be prepared both mentally and physically."

NAIA Ranks Nebraska Trio

Kansas City, Mo. — Three players from Nebraska schools are rated in individual scoring according to the latest NAIA basketball statistics.

Peru's Ananias Montague is tied for 14th with a 25.8 points a game average. Kearney's Tom Kropp is tied for 23rd, averaging 25.1 points a game.

JFK's Les Bundy is tied for 32nd, averaging 24.6 points a game.

Hastings is ranked in seven team categories, while Kearney is rated in one. The Antelopes are sixth in team offense, averaging 96.3 points a game.

The Broncos are No. 17 in team ratings with a 15-2 record.

Hastings is also ninth in winning margin (18.9 points a game), 19th in field goal shooting (50.5 per cent), 19th in free throw shooting (73.9 per cent), eighth in team rebounding (60.1 per cent) and 16th in offense (92.2 points a game).

Other Sports To Be Dropped From OTB Bill

State Sen. John DeCamp confirmed Friday he has decided to drop all references to sports other than horse racing from his off-track betting bill.

In introducing the bill, DeCamp had mentioned the possibility of opening up other sports, including Nebraska football, to off-track wagering.

That action would have come in the form of an amendment giving Nebraska State Racing Commission the option of permitting betting on sports other than Nebraska horse racing.

DeCamp said Friday the bill would be limited to Nebraska horse racing with the Racing Commission having the option of conducting betting on other horse racing such as the Kentucky Derby, but not other sports.

Washburn Hoping 'Lousy Score' Withstands Competition

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

There's one thing that can be said about Mick Washburn... he calls a spade a spade even if it's against himself.

When asked if he thought he would stay either No. 2 or three in the all-events of the men's City Bowling Tournament, Washburn answered in the affirmative.

"It's lousy," Washburn said about his score, "but I think I'll stand up. There's one left-hander bowling tonight (Friday) at Hollywood who needs a 628 to move past me, but left-handers have been getting buried at that alley this tournament."

Washburn, a left-hander himself, said he got lucky at Hollywood with his 628.

"The thing that hurt me was my singles," Washburn explained. "I shot that 725 in the doubles (when he and partner Mike White broke a 22-year-old city scratch record) then moved to five and six (alleys at Plaza) and shot a 555."

"I started out with my caramel ball and kept it for the first two games of my singles before I switched," he said. "I suppose I should've switched sooner because I got my best singles game when I did, but how the hell do you switch balls right after you roll a 725?"

One thing that may have hurt Washburn was rolling against a score instead of a person.

"I love to shoot head-to-head," Washburn said. "But I hate to shoot against a score. Still, I think I should've won it (singles and all-events)."

"I'm not bragging or anything," he hastened to add, "but I looked it up and that 555 is the lowest score I've shot at Plaza this year. That's my house. I can't but there and I should've done it."

they missed the first couple of shots, their tempo was disrupted and they could never get it back.

"I was pleased with the quickness our team exhibited tonight," he added. "Even with Fultz (6-5 Mike), Lincoln High is a quick team but we out-quickened them tonight."

Rick Reynolds, who topped Knight scorers with 23 points, added 10 points in the third quarter as the Knights outscored LHS, 18-5.

"The Links' Don Madlock scored with 4:45 left in the third period before LSE refused to yield another basket until Paul Grosscup tallied with 3:28 remaining in the game.

LSE's team defensive play was so intense that Lincoln High failed to place one player in double scoring figures. Steve Harris and Dana Kinnan topped the Links with eight points each.

McNaught revealed a new starting combination as seldom-used 6-5 junior Gary Gilson teamed with Reynolds, Steve Johnson, Jim Thompson and Steve McManaman.

"Gary is just beginning to recover from a football injury," McNaught said. "We were extremely happy to see him play the entire game."

Westover Leads LNE's Triumph

... CLASS A LEADERS NOW 10-1

North Platte — Top-rated Lincoln Northeast pretty well had things its own way here Friday night as it stifled North Platte, 70-42, in a Trans-Nebraska Conference battle.

Coach Ed Johnson's Class A leaders upped their record to 10-1 with the victory while North Platte dropped to 6-5.

A defensive switch in the early moments wiped out North Platte's only lead in the game. The Rockets opened with a full court press but after the host Bulldogs jumped ahead 5-2, fell back into a 1-2-2 zone defense and effectively thwarted North Platte thereafter.

Offensively, 6-3 senior Tom Westover handled the bulk of the scoring. He totaled 26 and chalked up 14 by halftime.

Westover and guard Marty Shields also led the Rockets to a big advantage in rebounds as North Platte was unable to work inside against that zone fortress.

In fact, the Northeast defense was so effective that the Bulldogs' leading point maker, 6-5 1/2 senior Randy Deira, was held scoreless for the contest. He had been averaging 11 points per outing going into the game.

The play of a pair of 6-6 sophomores was about the only bright spot for the hosts. Bruce Kucera was the leading North Platte scorer with 13 while Bob Von Behren was next with 8.

Shields, the 6-1 senior guard who sparked last weekend's win over rival Lincoln East chipped in with 12 points and 6-3 junior Terry Novak added 10.

Northeast led 32-21 at the intermission and then settled things for certain by outscoring the Bulldogs 20-10 in the third period.

For North Platte it was a third consecutive defeat to a Lincoln team. East defeated the Bulldogs 90-51, two weeks ago while Southeast was a 64-46 conqueror in December.

'Jays Fall To So. Illinois

Carbondale, Ill. (AP) — John Marker sank seven free throws in the final 11 minutes of play Friday night to lead Southern Illinois to a 78-74 basketball victory over Creighton.

Southern, which led 32-29 at halftime, was paced by Nate Hawthorne and Joe Merweather, who scored 24 and 22 points, respectively. Gene Harmon topped Creighton with 24 points.

The victory broke a five-game losing streak for Southern Illinois, which is now 9-10. Creighton is 10-7.

Omaha Paul VI Hits Lincoln Pius X

Omaha — Lincoln Pius X made more field goals than Omaha Paul VI here Friday night, but dropped a 66-59 nonconference game.

The Thunderbolts, who dropped to a 6-9 record, made 28 field goals compared to 24 for the hosts. However, the Omahans connected on 18 of 30 free throws to Pius X's three of 10.

Paul VI, ranked No. 8 in Class B and now 14-2, broke by outscoring the 'Bolts by five points.

OSU Holds Mat Lead

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma State held a commanding lead after seven weights in Friday's first-round action of the 5th annual OSI Invitational Wrestling Tournament at Gallagher Hall.

The Cowboys advanced a man in the all of the seven weights in first-round action, amassing 38 1/2 points.

Following the Cowboys were Cincinnati, 24 1/2 points, Moorehead State, 23, Brigham

Three Pius X players fouled out, while no Paul VI players got into foul trouble.

John Magsamen topped the 'Bolts with 16 points, followed by Artie Aksamit's 15 and Jim Rust's 10. Magsamen and Aksamit fouled out of the game.

The Omahans were led by Mary Kenny's 26 points.

IOC Formally Gets Lake Placid's Bid

Lausanne, Switzerland (AP) — The International Olympic Committee Friday formally received a bid by Lake Placid, N.Y., to stage the 1976 Winter Games.

"We have come in at the 11th hour," said Mayor Robert Peacock of Lake Placid, who is heading a five-man delegation here.

"We decided only 48 hours ago to come to Lausanne, and we have had no chance to meet the IOC properly and discuss our plans. But we have replied to their questionnaire, and we think we have a good chance of keeping the 1976 Winter Olympics in America."

The IOC executive board is meeting to consider a replacement for Denver, Colo., which gave up the 1976 Games following a state-wide referendum. Lake Placid is competing for the games against three European towns — Innsbruck, Austria; Chamonix, France and Tampere, Finland.

Applications were to have been filed by Jan. 15, and Salt Lake City was the American applicant. But it has since pulled out because it could not be sure of getting the $30 million it needed to stage the games.

Lake Placid is budgeting for $22 million. It already has the only existing bobsled run in the United States.

"We have received assurances from the state legislature and the congressmen from our district that we will not have any trouble about financial support," Mayor Peacock said.

"We could need much less than the $15 million federal grant on which Denver was counting."

Lord Killanan, president of the IOC, made a personal decision to allow Lake Placid to make its bid, even though it did not meet the Jan. 15 deadline.

"I think it was only fair to the Americans," Killanan said. "They have had so much trouble over these Winter Games."

"I bent the rules, but it is difficult to make a rigid rule in this situation because it has no precedent."

Denver was the first host city ever to pull out of staging the Olympics midway through the planning stage.

Some members of the IOC reportedly feel that the credibility of the United States has been damaged by the withdrawal first of Denver and then of Salt Lake City.

"It certainly has not helped any," Mayor Peacock commented.

A delegation from Montreal, led by Mayor Jean Drapeau, told a news conference Friday night all its major worries about staging the 1976 Summer Games are over.

Drapeau had just learned of a decision by the Canadian government to allow the minting of special Olympic coins. The Montreal Olympic Organizing Committee hopes to raise $250 million by selling the coins.

"After these words by the prime minister this afternoon the Montreal games are on," said Roger Rousseau, commissioner general of the Montreal Olympics.

The announcement came after weeks of speculation that Montreal would ask for a reduction in the size of the games or even give them up altogether.

Rousseau denied there is any plan to reduce the games in size.

"We were asked by the International Olympic Committee to put on the games with 21 disciplines and that is what we intend to do," Rousseau said.

The Montreal delegation is scheduled to present a progress report to the IOC executive committee Saturday.

Tracksters Set Marks In Toronto

TORONTO (AP) — Iris Davis of Tennessee State broke the world indoor mark for the 50-yard dash and Glenda Reiser, a 17-year-old Ottawa Jass, shattered the world standard for the 1,000 Friday night to highlight the Toronto star Maple Leaf Indoor Games.

World marks were equalled by both men and women in the 50-yard hurdles and the 100-yard dash.

Miss Davis, with a 55.0 clocking, shaved 1-10th of a second off the existing indoor mark for the 50, while Miss Reiser's 2:29.4 eclipsed the record of 2:32.2 set a year ago by Kathy Gibbons.

Wendy Tys set the old 50-yard standard seven years ago.

Danny Smith of the Bahamas, a student at Florida State University, pulled off a smashing upset in the 50 hurdles, clocking 5.8 and beating a class field which included core-orderholder Willie Davenport of Baton Rouge, La., and Olympic gold medalist Rodney Milburn of Southern University.

Mamie Rallins of Tennessee state equalled Patty Johnson's world best of 6.4 in the women's 50 hurdles.

Herb Washington of East Lansing, Mich., tied his own world best in the 50-yard dash with a time of 5.0.

North Platte JC Nips Platte, 57-55

North Platte converted two Platte turnovers into points in the final two minutes for a 57-55 Nebraska Junior College Athletic Conference basketball victory.

Platte overcame a 40-35 halftime deficit to move into a one-point lead with 12 minutes remaining.

Platte then switched to a ball control offense but two costly turnovers provided North Platte with the winning points.

Hunter, who lost in the Olympic trials this past summer and then returned to prison to finish out his sentence, will, of course, be accompanied by his corrections officer.

Oddly, Lyle, now managed by Denver millionaire Bill Daniels, also served a prison term for manslaughter before getting a late start in the boxing business.

Lyle boxed six rounds Friday at Bobby Gleason's gym in the Bronx while Quarry took the day off at his headquarters at the Concord Hotel in Catskills and will resume training Saturday.

The fighters will take their pre-fight physicals on Monday.

Concordia Stops Colorado College Northeastern Wins, 92-68

Norfolk (AP) — Northeastern College of Norfolk used a fast break to blow visiting Iowa Western out of the game in the second half for a 92-68 basketball victory here Friday.

Northeastern opened fast after intermission and at one point in the second half held a 34-point lead over the Iowans.

Daniel Ellsberg

Dismissal Motion Is Denied

Los Angeles (AP) — The judge in the Pentagon Papers trial refused Friday to dismiss the case against Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo, despite defense arguments that the government willfully concealed important documents.

"The legal authorities do not, in my opinion, justify or allow dismissal of the case," said U.S. District Judge Matt Byrne at the conclusion of three hours of argument.

"I do not feel either that a mistrial is appropriate," he said in turning down a separate motion for a mistrial.

Russo and Ellsberg are on trial on charges of espionage, conspiracy and theft in connection with the release of previously secret studies of the origin of the Vietnam war.

Byrne agreed that defense arguments that documents withheld by the prosecution were "exculpatory" or helpful to them, and said he would decide later in the trial whether penalties should be imposed on the government for holding back the documents.

The documents reportedly concluded that release of many portions of the Pentagon papers posed no security threat.

In arguing their motions to end the trial, defense attorneys accused the prosecution of "deceptiveness" and "misconduct."

The prosecutor, Asst. U.S. Atty. David Nissen, made no answering arguments. Instead, he told Byrne, "I submit it on the record."

Byrne responded: "The record is not too favorable."

The arguments came after a lengthy probe in which the judge turned up 37 government studies which had not been shown to him despite his court order last spring he be given such studies. He ruled that at least 13 of them contained "exculpatory evidence," that which could help show the defendants' innocence.

The government prosecutor has said he believed the studies contained nothing which had to be revealed under law.

But the judge has repeatedly cited a U.S. Supreme Court decision, Brady v. Maryland, which held in 1963 that "the suppression by the prosecution of evidence favorable to an accused upon request violated due process."

Chinese Year Of The Ox Underway

By The Associated Press

The Chinese Year of the Ox begins Saturday with Chinese families from San Francisco's Grant Avenue to Manhattan's Mott Street joining in celebration of the start of the lunar calendar's 4717th year.

Firecrackers will pop in San Francisco's Chinatown, the cultural and business center for the Bay Area's community of 90,000 Chinese-Americans, largest in the nation.

But San Francisco's big observance—organized now largely as a tourist attraction—doesn't start until next Saturday's Miss Chinatown U.S.A. beauty pageant. It will wind up with the giant dragon parade on the night of Feb. 17.

About 800 marchers were expected in Friday night's Golden Dragon parade being held Friday night by Chinese-Americans in Los Angeles.

Bill Hong, Hong Kong-born restaurant owner and parade organizer, said the dragon marchers performed primarily "for the public." Most of Los Angeles County's 45,000 Chinese-Americans will be staying home and celebrating traditional reunions, he said.

In Manhattan's Chinatown, surrounding Mott and Pell Streets, lion dancers, dragons, gongs, drums and fireworks will mark a two-day festival starting Saturday.

Urbom Issues Order Halting Planned Merger

U. S. District Judge Warren K. Urbom Friday issued a temporary injunction barring a proposed merger of Iowa Beef Processors of Dakota City and Missouri Beef Packers of Amarillo, Tex.

The injunction was sought by American Beef Packers of Omaha on the grounds that the merger would violate antitrust laws and tend to create a monopoly.

The temporary hearing will stay in effect until a hearing on a preliminary injunction before Judge Urbom.

According to the suit, Iowa Beef is the largest slaughterer of federally-inspected feed cattle in the nation, while Missouri Beef is the fifth largest and American Beef is the third largest.

One single proposal for the combining of all materials, labor and equipment including mechanical work and electrical work for the new Super Beef and Metal Livestock Buildings to be located at the Nebraska State Fairgrounds in Lincoln.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it

XXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXX
XXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXX

One letter simply stands for another. In this example X is used for the three letters A, F, and L. The two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophes, length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a pleasant surprise every day. It is a number puzzle designed by a famous mathematician. Count the letters in your first name. If it is 5, subtract 4 from the number 10. The result is your key number. Start at the top left corner of the rectangle, a 4 check every cell. If you find a number that is the same as your key number, then read the letters in the row and column that give you the answer.

"DON'T JUST STAND THERE, WOMAN! MAKE MY BREAKFAST!"

We always sit down and discuss our differences like two sensible people. Unfortunately it never settles anything.

"Hold it, everybody - I've written a bathtub scene for Martha Washington!"
